You've maybe already heard about Talking Books, or may even be a current patron, but have you heard of BARD?

BARD stands for Braille and Audio Reading Download, and with it, you have access to the full catalog of books and magazines from the National Library Services (NLS) for the Blind and Print Disabled. In the same way that you would order books through the Library's Talking Book service, BARD allows you to search, download, and read any of the thousands of titles in our database without having to wait on cartridges coming in the mail. You can use BARD in a regular computer browser, in an Android or iOS phone application, with your current talking book player, or with your own commercial player.

In order to use BARD, you must be part of the Talking Books program. You can find the application for Talking Books at <http://www.library.nd.gov/talkingbooks.html>.

If you are already a Talking Books patron and are interesting in utilizing BARD, give us a call at 701-328-1408 or email tbooks@nd.gov and our Reader's Advisors can get you set up with an account!

All About Herbs

Submitted by Al Peterson

This month's Universal Class highlight is (excuse the pun) a different flavor from the more professional development articles. All About Herbs is an eleven-lesson course that explores the culinary, medicinal, and spiritual purposes of herbs.

This class will cover all the basics about herbs and prepare you to explore all the many uses of herbs. You will learn the many benefits of cooking with herbs and incorporating them into your favorite dishes, the main traditions of herbal medicine and how they can be wonderful additions to your medicine cabinet, and even find out how to start growing your own herbs in containers.

So, if you have the thyme and have always been curious about herbs, check out All About Herbs under the Arts, Crafts, & Hobbies category in Universal Class at <https://www.universalclass.com/i/course/learn-about-herbs.htm>.

State Documents Depository

Are you looking for a state agency's annual report, newsletter, handbook, or other types of publications from years past? These documents are accessible via the State Library's online catalog as part of the State Document Depository.

The State Library collects, preserves, and disseminates all North Dakota state government documents produced for public use. In addition to paper copies, the online catalog also includes the electronic versions when available.

If you are interested in learning more about the State Document Depository or would like to request a title, visit <http://library.nd.gov/statedocdeposit.html> or call 701-328-4622.

Book Review

"Book Scavenger" by Jennifer Chambliss Bertman

Reviewed by Shari Mosser

After twelve-year-old Emily and her state-hopping family move to San Francisco, she teams up with her new friend James to follow clues in an odd book they find. Emily and James hope to figure out its secrets before the men who attacked Emily's hero, publisher Garrison Griswold, solve the mystery or come after them instead!

Have you always wanted to play a game filled with riddles, ciphers, and mysteries where books were the prize? That is the purpose of the Book Scavenger game. You choose a book to send on an adventure and pick a place to hide it. Then you create and upload a clue for others to find it. When it's found, you and the seeker earn points which will earn you a higher rank in the game! This concept alone intrigued me enough to pick up this book. However, I kept reading it because it was a fun read. The puzzles and mysteries ranged from easy to "huh, I couldn't figure that out!" There are also real-life instances about authors and other book-related games written in the book.

So if you or someone you love is a book-loving, game-playing, puzzle-solving dreamer, then this book is perfect for you. Otherwise, the story and action are lively enough to make this a good read.

"Book Scavenger" is available in the North Dakota State Library's collection.
