* * * GOVERNOR LINK VISITS STATE LIBRARY * * *

Governor Arthur Link attended an open house at the State Library on the eve of the North Dakota delegation's trip to the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services in Washington, D.C. November 15-19, 1979. Governor Link and Edward J. Klecker, Director of Institutions, toured the State Library for an hour and complimented the agency for its fine and long-standing record of service to North Dakota citizens. (Pictures on page 2 of this issue).

* * * STATE COLLEGES MOVE TOWARD OCLC * * *

The four-year public and private colleges (Dickinson State College, Mayville State College, Minot State College, Valley City State College, Jamestown College, and Mary College) moved ahead collectively toward joining the Ohio College Library Consortium (OCLC) network by preparing a grant proposal through the Northern Plains Consortium for Title III funding. The proposal was reviewed and approved by the Northern Plains Consortium in November at their meeting in Bismarck. It was submitted to Washington on December 10. Cheryl Bailey, Mary College, and Richard Wolfert, State Library, presented the proposal to the six academic deans who make up the Northern Plains Consortium committee. The two-year community colleges are also considering a similar move. The State School of Science, Wahpeton, is expected to move ahead on its own because of the special nature of the school.

* * * NEW CHALLENGE GRANT PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY NEH * * *

The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) will give you $1 for each $3 you can raise from other sources to support and improve library programs related to the humanities. This is not a new program, but NEH has not been getting the response it has hoped for from libraries, especially public libraries. If you plan to open up new program frontiers in the visual or performing arts, literature, history, etc., this could be an opportunity to attract new and lasting support with the promise of matching money from on high. The new guidelines are now out; send for them at: Challenge Grant Guidelines, Mail Stop 351, National Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, D.C. 20506. Or phone: 202-724-0386. For other information on the program, write or call: NEH Challenge Grants, Mail Stop 800, National Endowment for the Humanities, Washington, D.C. 20506. Phone: 202-724-0267. DEADLINE FOR APPLICATION: FEBRUARY 1, 1980. Grant awards will be made in the fall of 1980.

* * * STATE LIBRARY PASSES FEDERAL DEPOSITORY INSPECTION * * *

On August 27, 1979, the State Library's depository collection was officially inspected by Mr. Daniel R. MacGilvrary representing the Office of the Superintendent of Documents.

The specific areas evaluated, which correspond to those listed in the Guidelines for the Depository Library System, are given below with a rating for each derived from data obtained during the inspection visit. A rating of "Good" meets the minimum level of adequacy for the areas evaluated.

RATING:

Good	I.	Depository Collection
Excellent	II.	Organization of the Depository Collection
Excellent	III.	Maintenance of the Depository Collection
Very Good	IV.	Staffing
Very Good	V.	Space Standards
Excellent	VI.	Service to the General Public
Excellent	VII.	Cooperation with the Government Printing Office
Excellent	VIII.	Interlibrary Cooperation

* * * NORTH DAKOTA ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES WELCOMES AND OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZES NORTH DAKOTA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION PLANNING COMMITTEE * * *

Dennis Page, Grand Forks Public Librarian, brought welcome news to the Advisory Council on Libraries meeting in Fargo, December 6, 1979, when he presented the Council with a proposal for recognition of the North Dakota Library Association Planning Committee. The Planning Committee, consisting of twelve persons, will raise issues for consideration, study and advisement pertaining to statewide library development. The Council voted unanimously to receive the new group and aid it in meeting its challenge. Richard Wolfert, State Librarian, was particularly glad to see the formation of such a group and so commented to Mr. Page. It appears now that progress toward increased library effectiveness and library problem solving is one step closer as this new group can provide the Advisory Council on Libraries with a specific focus on real issues in order that advisements (in light of the State Plan) can be made to the State Library.

The Advisory Council on Libraries Planning Committee has been directed by the Council to assist the new Planning Committee in presenting its concerns to the Advisory Council. The Advisory Council on Libraries Planning Committee includes Dina Butcher, Minot, Chairperson; Harry Middaugh, Lansford; and Bob Boston, Bismarck.

* * * BE WITH A BOOK FOR A DAY * * *

A big "thanks" to all the libraries in the state who participated in "Be With a Book for a Day" November 15-19, 1979, which was a national program to publicize the importance of libraries on the eve of the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services. The newsclippings are still coming into the State Library, and it seems that mayors and other local officials were quite enthusiastic about choosing a favorite book. Many libraries had "open houses", and Hankinson had a parade of school children carrying their favorite books. Ward County Public Library and Minot Public Library held a joint "open house" to honor local legislators and officials for their support of House Bill 1588. The State Library also had an "open house" for people in state government which Governor Arthur Link attended with the book presented to him by the North Dakota Library Association: A Man As Big As the West, by Nellie Snyder Yost.

* * * EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION CENTER * * *

After several months of collecting and organizing, the North Dakota Educational Information Center (EIC) is ready to begin disseminating information about post-secondary education and training opportunities in North Dakota. This information includes information about programs in the various areas of study and training, admission requirements and procedures, costs and financial aid, student services, and available degrees or certificates.

Libraries around the state will provide one of the major and most important ways of disseminating this information. All printed Educational Information Center information is being sent to public, academic and some special libraries. It is hoped that you will display these materials with any college catalogs or other printed educational information you may have.

Another means of disseminating Educational Information Center information is with the EIC-TAPE system. Much of the information collected by the Educational Information Center has been recorded on 3½ minute cassette tapes. Each tape has been assigned a number and a heading. Soon you will receive an index of these tapes. The tapes can be heard by calling a toll-free number (given on the index) and requesting the number of the tape you wish to hear. It is hoped that you will display the EIC-TAPE Index with the Educational Information Center printed materials and that you will refer any interested library patron to the use of this service.

If you have any questions about the Educational Information Center materials or the EIC-TAPE system, please contact Cynthia Bates or Verena Schauer at the State Library.

We appreciate your participation in this information and referral service.

* * * BOWMAN LIBRARY STUDY CONTINUES * * *

The city of Bowman and the North Dakota State Library have been cooperating since July in analyzing the library picture there. Jeff Fox, State Library Planning Consultant, made a visitation earlier in the summer and collected basic data on circulation, collection, processing, and facilities in order to aid the Clara Lincoln Phelan Library Board in evaluating their library program. Clara D. Brown, librarian, assisted in the initial collection of data. Mrs. Brown has also aided her board with ideas and information helpful in considering the library's effectiveness. The Board developed a survey questionnaire for random sampling in the community and has utilized this to gauge use and opinion about library material, operations, and facilities. Data analysis is still incomplete but a joint meeting of the Board and State Library personnel in January will begin to explore possible problem areas and start the outline of a local library planning process aimed at greater local library effectiveness.

The Bowman survey questionnaire is now being considered by Bottineau County for possible use there.

NORTH DAKOTA ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES INSTITUTIONS

* * * COMMITTEE WELL INTO STATEWIDE SURVEY * * *

The North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries Institutions Committee has recently completed its second site visit and survey. After long research and development of a survey instrument based on data made available in the Biennial Report to the Director of Institutions, the committee is collecting vital data. It is hoped that site visits to all state institutions can be completed by February 1 and that a preliminary report will be ready for the regular spring Advisory Council on Libraries meeting in March or April. The committee includes Jeanette Holm, Mandan, Committee Chairperson; Margaret Teachout, Fort Yates; and Coral Gayton, Bismarck. The survey instrument was tested at the North Dakota State Industrial School. Once final adjustments to the questionnaire were made, the Council surveyed the North Dakota State Penitentiary.

The institutional survey is comprehensive in its approach to include administration, program-education personnel, library personnel and clientele in its sample. The main thrust of the survey is to determine library place in the institutional program and its performance as such. The Committee will utilize the information to offer the Council direction in future institutional grants consideration and in making State Library planning advisements.

* * * EDUCATIONAL TELEPHONE NETWORK * * *

Seven libraries in North Dakota will be installing Educational Telephone Network (ETN) in January, 1980. They are: Grand Forks Public Library; Fargo Public Library; Veteran's Memorial Library, Bismarck; Dickinson Public Library, Dickinson; James Memorial Public Library, Williston; Minot Public Library, Minot; and Alfred Dickey Free Public Library, Jamestown.

Educational Telephone Network makes use of a dedicated telephone cable to connect various cities in North Dakota via a special receiver and four table microphones. Through using this equipment, it will be possible to conduct meetings, workshops, college courses and seminars on a statewide basis without traveling long distances. It is a more interesting way of conducting a meeting than a conference telephone call in that at each site ten to fifteen people are together face-to-face even though the meeting as a whole may include seventy people. So an organization may have the advantages of a meeting in small groups while being with people from all over the state.

Educational Telephone Network has been in operation in local hospitals for the use of health care personnel for four years under the direction of the University of North Dakota School of Medicine. Two years ago the State Library contacted Rick Winant, Director of the UND Biomedical Communications Department to see if Educational Telephone Network could be made available to librarians and other non-health related groups. It was decided that we would try out ETN on an experimental basis in the larger public libraries of North Dakota for a year to see if professional and other adult groups liked using the system. Each library receiving the equipment will be paying $500 rental for the equipment the first year it is in service and each group using the equipment will pay $100 per meeting. Considering traveling time in North Dakota and the price of gasoline, North Dakota libraries are offering a real bargain to adult groups in the state wishing to offer continuing education courses, conduct meetings and courses with credit to people throughout North Dakota.

ETN should be in good running order by April of 1980. The UND Biomedical Department will be making the scheduling arrangements with the seven libraries, but Ruth Mahan at the State Library will be contacting and publicizing the service to the professional organizations and schools who may wish to take advantage of ETN.

* * * A A C R - 1 1 * * *

On January 1, 1981, a new cataloging code will be implemented by the Library of Congress that will replace the old Anglo-American Cataloging Code, First Edition. This new code is called Anglo-American Cataloging, Second Edition (commonly referred to as AACR-11).

Should your library decide to implement AACR-11, this new code will make certain fundamental changes in your cataloging practices and card catalog. The new code and its implications were the topic of a three-day intensive pre-conference workshop at the annual American Library Association convention in Dallas, Texas in June, 1979. Darrell McNamara (State Library, 224-2490) and Beverly Brkic (NDSU Library, 237-8891) represented the state of North Dakota at this workshop. They will be this state's resource persons for libraries considering the changes that will occur if a library is going to adopt AACR-11.

Workshops on this topic are being considered by the State Library. Should anyone desire information on AACR-11, they can call either Beverly or Darrell.

* * * 1980 CHILDRENS BOOK AWARD * * *

This winter and spring your young patrons may assist with the selection of the book which will receive the North Dakota Children's Book Award for 1980. Any library may participate in selection. Voting may begin now and continue through February 15, 1980. Each child should be asked to choose the best book he read this year. All books written for kindergarten through sixth grade are eligible with the exception of Star Wars and Are You There God? It's Me, Margaret. Those books received the two previous awards. Selection will not be limited by date of publication. The winning book need not be by a living author. Any child from pre-school to eighth grade may vote at his school and/or public library. Any library may participate in this selection, and the broadest possible representation is desired. Contest deadlines are as follows:

- February 15, 1980 - submit title of one winner only from your library to Darrel Hildebrant, Veterans Memorial Public Library, 520 Avenue A East, Bismarck, ND 58501
- March 1, 1980 - Titles of books receiving more than one vote will be sent to participating libraries for a run-off election.
- April 15, 1980 - Results of second election should be mailed to Darrel Hildebrant.
- May 1, 1980 - Winning book will be announced.

The author of the winning book will be invited to attend the North Dakota Library Association conference in Minot in September. The award will be made at that time.

DELEGATE INFORMATION
MEMORANDUM NO. 10

DATE: 21 December 1979

TO: White House Conference Delegates and Alternates
FROM: Marilyn Gell, Director
RE: Follow-up Activity

Congratulations on a very successful White House Conference. Your work has generated a great deal of enthusiasm and interest both in Washington and throughout the country. Though only a short time has passed since the Conference adjourned November 19, activity is underway in several areas which should be of interest to you:

- 1) The National Commission on Libraries and Information Science devoted its entire two-day December meeting to discussing the White House Conference resolutions as the basis for its new national program for the 1980's.
- 2) The new U.S. Secretary of Education, Hon. Shirley M. Hufstедler, has received and is reviewing your recommendation to create a position of Assistant Secretary for Library and Information Services within the Department of Education. The enclosed letter from Charles Benton will give you more details on this item.
- 3) The White House Conference staff has begun work on the Final Report which is due on the President's desk March 18. All delegates and alternates will receive a copy of the full report when it is completed.
- 4) A meeting of the White House Conference Committee of the Conference (formerly the Resolutions Committee) has been scheduled for January 5 to review the draft resolutions as compiled by the Conference staff from recorders' notes at the general sessions. According to the Conference rules and acclamation by Conference delegates, this Committee is charged with reviewing the recommendations to insure that they indeed reflect action taken by delegates at the Conference. In addition, this Committee was authorized to make editorial and grammatical changes to resolutions. The Committee will not be amending the resolutions or making any substantive changes to the text.

5) A list of Committee members with addresses and business phone numbers is enclosed for your information, should you wish to contact one of the members. You will receive a copy of the final resolutions shortly after the meeting on 5 January 1980.

6) Our office has received many inquiries from Congressmen, state officials and the press regarding the outcome of the Conference. Until we have more complete information, we are responding to requests for information by sending the draft Conference resolutions. Enclosed are samples of some of the coverage received nationally during the days of the Conference. If any of you have seen items in your local press about the White House Conference, we would very much appreciate your sending us a copy for our files.

7) The National Commission, charged with implementing White House Conference recommendations, has begun plans to work with the ad hoc follow-up committee composed of delegates elected by each delegation to the White House Conference. Representatives from state delegations should be chosen soon, and names forwarded to Mr. Alphonse F. Trezza, Executive Director of the NCLIS. Delegates-at-large are encouraged to participate with the delegation from their state in selecting a representative to this committee and in all other Conference follow-up activities. The state librarian in each state will be able to appraise delegates-at-large of follow-up activity in the state; a list of state librarians is enclosed.

We would like to thank all of you for the hard work and dedication that was so apparent at the Conference. The real job is of course still ahead. We wish you a very happy and restful holiday season and hope that the new year will bring us closer to the achievement of improved library and information services.

Merry Christmas! Happy Chanukah!
A Joyous and Productive New Year!

Twelve people from North Dakota attended the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services. Those attending were: Boyd Wright, Grand Forks; Gloria Dohman, Wahpeton; Jackie Mundy, Minot; Hazel Doan, MeKenzie; Judi Vogelsang, Dickinson; Peg Warren, Williston; Diane Duty, Cando; Joanne Pahlmeyer, Regent; Dina Butcher, Minot; Pat Herbel, Bismarck; Richard Wolfert, Bismarck; and Ruth Mahan, Bismarck.

* * * NORTH DAKOTA ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES INTENDING * * * POSITIVE RESPONSE TO NORTH DAKOTA LIBRARY ASSOCIATION RESOLUTION

The North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries at their winter meeting in Fargo voted to organize a committee to study the North Dakota Library Association Trustee Section resolution and recommend a response. The committee includes Bernnett Reinke, librarian at Stoxen Library, Dickinson State College; Nelle Wang, citizen member, Williston; Doris Greenleaf, past council president and North Dakota Library Association Trustee of the Year, Devils Lake; Jeanette Holm, librarian at the State Industrial School and current Advisory Council on Libraries president, Mandan; Harry Middaugh, Bottineau County trustee, Lansford. The committee will study the resolution and recommend to the Council whether or not a response is necessary or appropriate and, if so, what the nature of that response will be. The Council stressed the point that any response it may take will be in a positive vein. The issue was given top priority by the Council and may even necessitate a special meeting of the Council in late January or early February.

January 21, 1980

Honorable Arthur A. Link
Executive Office
State Capitol
Bismarck, North Dakota 58505

Dear Governor Link:

The North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries herewith submits a report on its activities for the period of October 1, 1978 through September 30, 1979.

The Council has had an active and fruitful year, and each member has learned a great deal. Although we find the problems very complex, we believe the Council is making some strides toward the accomplishment of our challenge to make recommendations for the improvement of the delivery of library services in North Dakota.

Thank you for your confidence in appointing us to the Council, as well as for your interest and support of our endeavors.

Sincerely,

Doris Greenleaf, 1978-79 Chairman
North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries

ANNUAL REPORT TO THE GOVERNOR
October 1, 1978 to September 30, 1979

A review of the year's work of the North Dakota Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries reveals a mood for change and progress in a number of areas in the North Dakota Library Community. With an optimistic attitude, the Advisory Council submits this report of their activities from October 1, 1978 to September 30, 1979.

ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES STUDIES ROLE

Much of this past years activity has been devoted to preparing the Council for accomplishing its goal. In doing this the Council has studied, in detail, the Library Services and Construction Act. This act is the founding and enabling legislation that charges the Council in its advisory role. Many hours have been spent studying the Library Services and Construction Act and the North Dakota State Plan for Library Development around which the Council focuses its advisements to the State Librarian. Both of these documents are complex and comprehensive. The Advisory Council is now more capable in accepting its role as a process group designed to consider and study library problems and needs as they relate to the Library Services and Construction Act program and to the State Plan. The Council now stands more prepared to aid the State Library in helping public libraries identify problems, propose needs and implement solutions on a statewide basis.

Annual Report to the Governor

CHALLENGE TO REVISE STATE PLAN

The Advisory Council this year has directed attention toward revising the North Dakota State Plan for Library Development, which is required from states receiving Library Services and Construction Act Funds by the federal government. A number of changes that have recently taken place in North Dakota have made this activity imperative: interest in better library services sparked by the Governor's Conference on Libraries in October, 1978; a growing interest for library development in the library community; and state funding of public libraries passed in the 1979 legislature. Advising the State Library on the State Plan is one of the major functions of the Advisory Council. Thus it has become one of the council's most important challenges, not only during the past year, but also for the coming year.

VISIT LIBRARIES TO GAIN A LOCAL PERSPECTIVE

The Advisory Council chose to hold its quarterly meetings in different areas of the state rather than confine them to Bismarck. This enabled the council members to visit libraries, librarians and lay citizens in each location. As one council member wrote in her report: "It (the traveling) has contributed immeasurably to our first hand understanding of the difficulties under which we work in North Dakota to provide library services. Long distances and sparse population become very real when we visit western and northern parts of North Dakota."

Annual Report to the Governor

The libraries visited included public (both large and small), college, institutional and school. The council visited Carnegie Public, Lake Region Junior College and North Dakota School for the Deaf in Devils Lake; Dickinson State College and Dickinson Public Libraries; Richardton Abbey; Bowman public and school libraries; Mott and Hettinger libraries; and Bottineau County Bookmobile Library.

Some of the interesting hints of progress were: (1) citizens in Bowman met with an Advisory Council inter-library cooperation committee to discuss the possibilities of combining their school and public libraries; (2) Dickinson Public Library is providing room for a Basic Education class and also running a book exchange with smaller libraries in the area; (3) Devils Lake public, school, junior college, and School for the Deaf librarians had met to discuss cooperation in ordering materials and avoiding duplication of purchases of periodicals, reference books and other materials; and (4) Bottineau citizens were discussing possibilities of establishing a walk-in library for the county in addition to running the bookmobile. The Advisory Council learned a great deal about the problems plaguing the libraries visited, especially in areas with sparse population and meagre funding.

The Advisory Council has established topical committees within the Council to study library problems in the various types of libraries across the state and to make recommendations to the Council for possible changes in the State Plan. This latter committee will bring the recommendations to the council for consideration and approval.

Annual Report to the Governor

In addition, two members of the Council serve as liason members on the North Dakota Library Association Planning Committee, which provide input to the Council. The North Dakota Library Association committee includes both librarians and trustees. The Council was, for the first time, officially invited and attended the North Dakota Library Association Convention at Grand Forks.

One current active committee over the past year has been the Advisory Council on Libraries Institutions Committee. This committee is currently surveying institutions to determine the actual role and impact of each institutional library. A comprehensive instrument has been designed and validated through testing and research based on the State Biennial Report for Institutions in North Dakota. The survey is currently ongoing and several institutions remain to be surveyed. Results of the survey will be studied and reported on by the committee at the spring 1980 quarterly meeting. At this time the committee will recommend future action with regard to institutional libraries to include considerations on the current annual grant program now in effect for state institutional libraires.

STATE LIBRARY REPORTS

State Library staff members kept the Advisory Council informed on activities within the State Library as well as those out in the state library community. State Librarian Richard Wolfert briefed the council in on the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services and library legislation during the state legislative session. He also served as a Council resource person, providing useful information both at meetings and through the mail.

Annual Report to the Governor

Jeff Fox, Director of the State Library Office of Planning and Development and Advisory Council Executive, provided the leadership for the Council activities. He devoted part of the meetings to clarifying the role of the Council. He also presented the State Library Position Paper on the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services and discussed inter-library cooperation. He reported on his work with librarians and trustees throughout the state to produce library standards for North Dakota. The Council was presented a product resulting from these meetings, a list of 1979 performance oriented library standards. Further work on these standards, however, is being delayed until new standards are issued by the American Library Association on 1980.

The Advisory Council heard reports from Ruth Mahan, State Field Librarian, concerning meetings she had conducted with librarians and trustees from small public libraries around the state. She also reported on her work preparing delegates to go to the White House Conference in November, 1979. Ms. Mahan kept the Council informed about educational meetings and workshops available to librarians and trustees, including the Spring Frolics workshop sponsored by the State Library. A number of Advisory Council members participated on the latter workshop program.

Annual Report to the Governor

The Council was informed on current developments and future plans for the Educational Information Center program located in the State Library and funded through the Post Secondary Education Commission by Cynthia Bates, Director.

ACTION TAKEN ON RESOLUTIONS

The Advisory Council was asked to give its support to a Library Training Institute for Native Americans sponsored by the University of North Dakota Center for Teaching and Learning. The Council passed a resolution of approval at its March 26, 1979 meeting. Another resolution passed at that meeting resolved that North Dakota libraries, and particularly the State Library, should seek every opportunity to cooperate with and support public broadcasting in North Dakota.

MINORITY REPORT MECHANISM

At the May 7, 1979 meeting, the Council took action to set up a mechanism for council members dissenting on a motion to voice their opinions through filing a minority report. Such a report was filed on the resolution supporting the Library Training Institute and signed by three members. A similar report system is used to record all votes of Council members.

COHESIVE GROUP

The present Advisory Council has become a very cohesive group, working well together and willing to accept challenges. The Council members are aware that the coming year will bring many opportunities toward making changes in library services in the state.

GOVERNOR'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES

Turtle Mountain Lodge, Lake Metigoshe, North Dakota
August 23 & 24, 1979

Thursday, August 23, 1979

Members Present: Boston, Butcher, Greenleaf, Holm, Kummer, Ahlness, McMartin, Middaugh, Stewart, Teachout, Wang.

Members Not Present: Borchert, Reinke, Gayton.

Others Present: Jeff Fox, Ione Simek.

On Thursday, August 23, 1979, members of the LSCA/Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries met at Turtle Mountain Lodge, Lake Metigoshe, North Dakota. The meeting convened at 2:00 P.M. (CDT). The minutes were read and unanimously approved without correction. Motion for approval of minutes was made by Jeanette Holm and seconded by Dina Butcher.

A welcome and introduction to Lake Metigoshe - Bottineau County, was made by Council member and meeting host Harry Middaugh. Harry invited the Council members to relax and enjoy the beauty of the area and to note the progressive attitude of Bottineau County residents, particularly in their recent enthusiasm for library service.

A Council group discussion began at 2:20 on "Library Development in North Dakota". Library standards and their relationship to library development were the first topic for discussion. The purpose of standards was seen in two ways. Some view standards as a mechanism to "shape up" libraries on a statewide basis by requiring minimum service activities to occur. Others viewed standards as a local activity providing the board and librarian with information to develop local library improvement incentives.

The role of the State Library was discussed by the group as to its place as a central library service agency, library development coordinator or a combination of both. The discussion led to several areas of further inquiry. What are the particular complexities (fiscal, political, geographic, logistics, clientele, etc.) of role change or augmentation at the State Library? What alternatives, if any, are feasible for further exploration? How will a role change affect federal/state funding and LSCA program requirements? The Council expressed a desire to discuss these matters with the State Librarian at a future date. The Executive Secretary will arrange a meeting between the planning committee and the State Librarian for this purpose in the near future. It was announced that a library development meeting was requested of all Category I and II library administrators to be held at the Mandan Seven Seas Motor Inn, September 12, at 10:00. It is the purpose of this meeting to allow uninterrupted presentation of librarians perspectives in regard to statewide library development in North Dakota. Members of the Council may attend at their own expense if they desire. It is hopeful that one or more members of the planning committee be "officially" present as a participant.

The evening meeting provided more detailed discussion of the State Plan as a mechanism for change. A closer understanding of the State Library operation as it now exists appeared to be a prerequisite to suggesting possible planning changes.

Careful reading and attention of the group focused on Section 5.2 and 5.5. Section 5.2, Part A, Public Library Service, described an area of greatest need as the rural areas and small towns. Some Council members expressed doubt that this was a "need" and in fact the starting or delivery of new services to areas unable to pay for such service was, in fact, a disservice to them and other more flourishing but dependent libraries.

There was discussion about possible contradiction in Section 5.51., between paragraph 4 and paragraph 6. The development of Library Service Centers to extend services to surrounding areas and the description of the State Library as an apex to a system providing materials and services appears inconsistent to some Council members.

The Committees did not present proposals to the Council for plan changes. The Council expressed the desire to work on the State Plan as a continuing process throughout the year and accumulate suggestions to be presented annually to the State Library.

ADJOURNFriday, August 24, 1979

Members Present: Boston, Butcher, Greenleaf, Holm, Kummer, Ahlness, McMartin, Middaugh, Stewart, Teachout, Wang.

Members Not Present: Borchert, Reinke, Gayton.

Others Present: Lorraine Christian (Bottineau Librarian), Jeff Fox, Ione Simek, Avis Veikley (Bottineau Current (paper)).

The meeting convened at 9:30 A.M. and began with continued discussion of the State Plan for Library Development. Discussion included the effect of HB 1588 on local library development. Some members were not sure local libraries saw state aid as a developmental fund. As member Harry Middaugh described the library funding options in Bottineau County, we could all "take the money and run". The Council was informed that nearly half of the public libraries have not yet responded with letters of intent to receive state funds under HB 1588. The efforts of the State Library to accomodate public libraries to apply for and receive state aid were described and accepted as most adequate. Discussion turned to the expenditures of the state aid monies and the Council was informed that no records or evaluations of impact were presently being kept. Dina Butcher expressed concern that future legislative efforts to retain or improve HB 1588 might be jeopardized by this lack of feedback. It was noted that at least five libraries were in advanced negotiations to purchase bookmobiles using some or all of 1588 funds.

The Council, by future consensus, requested that no planning changes be made to the State Library plan. Revisions are to be placed under study for future changes to be formally requested no later than August 30, 1980.

The Council voted and asked that some members (unable to receive reimbursement from their own sources) be given travel funds to attend the NDLA Convention in Grand Forks, September 27, 28 & 29. The Council is aware of the current fiscal difficulties in the State Library development budget and recognizes the need to efficiently utilize existing funds. The interaction and information available at such a meeting appears an invaluable aid to concerned Council members. The Executive Secretary was requested to poll members as to their ability to find reimbursement from another source and that aid might be offered to those without such a funding resource. The motion was made by Ruth McMartin and seconded by Dina Butcher. It was a unanimous vote.

To conclude the meeting Harry Middaugh introduced the library staff of the Bottineau County Library. Ione Simek, newly elected president of the Board, was also present. Ms. Lorraine Christian, Librarian, answered questions regarding the service and history of the Bottineau Library effort. The Library is operational in the form of a bookmobile stopping at selected schools throughout Bottineau County. Ms. Christian indicated that all reports, paperwork, etc. were handled exclusively by the school and she was not aware of financial circumstances for funding or operating the library. The library has now been placed under the directorship of a library board to administer the two mill levy now dedicated to library service in the County. Mrs. Simek, brings an impressive background in library practice and education to her office. Along with Mrs. Simek, our own Council member Harry Middaugh is a newly elected member of the board. The Bottineau County Board officially presented their letter of intent for application of 1588 funds to Jeff Fox, Planning Director at the State Library. A tour of the bookmobile was conducted at the conclusion of the meeting.

The Council expressed its appreciation to Harry Middaugh for elegantly hosting a productive, uninhibited meeting in beautiful surroundings. We also wish to thank the Bottineau County Board and their representatives Ione Simek, Lorraine Christian and staff for taking the time to entertain the Council's sincere interest in their development.

The next LSCA/Governor's Advisory Council meeting will be December 6 and 7 at Fargo, hosted by Ruth McMartin and Betty Kummer. A visitation to Wahpeton will be scheduled at this meeting. Further details will be forthcoming with the agenda.

MINUTES OF THE MEETING HELD ON DECEMBER 6 and 7 AT FARGO WILL BE PUBLISHED IN FLICKERTALE NEWSLETTER AFTER THEIR APPROVAL AT THE NEXT COUNCIL MEETING, WHICH WILL BE HELD IN GRAND FORKS ON MARCH 26-28, 1980.

THE LIBRARY COMMUNITY IS ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND THE ADVISORY COUNCIL MEETINGS AND TO SUBMIT TOPICS FOR CONSIDERATION BY THE COUNCIL AT THEIR REGULAR QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA

EXECUTIVE OFFICE

BISMARCK

ARTHUR A. LINK
Governor

EXECUTIVE ORDER 1977-11

It is the policy of the State of North Dakota, as part of its provision for public education to promote the establishment, maintenance and development of library service, and that such library service is to be provided by a library supported by public funds and operated for the benefit and free use of individuals of all ages in the community in the meeting of their educational, informational, and recreational interests and needs.

Since these interests and needs exceed the library resources and services available at any one library, the coordination of all types of libraries, (school, public, special, college and university) is of prime importance to the library clientele and to the tax payers of the state.

Therefore, I hereby establish the North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries to provide advice and counsel to the Governor, the Director of Institutions, and the State Librarian on matters of policy and programs pertaining to state-wide library service and development.

The Advisory Council on Libraries shall consist of members appointed by the Governor and shall be made on the basis of ability, a sound understanding of the total responsibilities and objectives of a state-wide library program, and an active interest in the attainment of comprehensive goals. The term of office of each appointive member shall be for one year beginning on October 1 of each year. Any vacancy on the Council shall be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term in the same manner as the original appointment. The Advisory Council shall elect a chairman and a vice chairman at the first meeting held. The regular meetings of the Council shall be quarterly and special meetings may be called by the chairman and the State Librarian jointly.

A Resource Committee of non-Council members may be appointed jointly by the State Librarian and the chairman to assist in the carrying out of the duties of the Council.

The duties of the Council shall include:

1. Gathering information pertaining to state-wide needs for library and information service;
2. Provide advice on the development and coordination of the services rendered by all publicly supported libraries;
3. Assist in the evaluation of library programs provided by all publicly supported libraries;
4. Promote the improvement of library and information service in accordance with the State Plan.

The Council shall provide a report to the Governor, the Director of Institutions, and the State Librarian detailing the state of library affairs, and such report shall be due October 1, 1978.

Reimbursement of expenses of Council members shall be limited to the prevailing state employee rates for mileage, meals, and lodging, and shall also be limited to regular and special meetings of the Council.

Council member expenses shall be paid by the State Library upon the completion of prescribed forms. Such reimbursement shall be limited to federal funds available for this purpose.

This Executive Order supersedes Executive Order No. 1974-6 dated July 25, 1974.

Dated this twenty-first day of September, 1977.

- SPRING FROLIC TO BE HELD -

The North Dakota State Library and the North Dakota Library Association are jointly sponsoring the Spring Frolic to be held in Devils Lake on April 8 and in Dickinson on April 10, 1980. Details will be mailed to librarians shortly.

- LIBRARY TRUSTEE WORKSHOPS -

Thelma Klingensmith, President of the Trustee Section of the North Dakota Library Association, has planned library trustee workshops to be held in Minot on March 15, and in Jamestown on March 29, 1980. Details have been mailed directly to the trustees.

- TRUSTEE AWARD TO BE PRESENTED -

The Trustee Section of the North Dakota Library Association is accepting nominations for the 1980 Trustee Citation Award. This citation is presented annually to one or two North Dakota trustees in recognition of distinguished service to library development. The Third Annual Trustee Citation will be presented at the final banquet of the NDLA Convention in Minot next October. Previous winners of this award include Ms. Dina Butcher - 1978, and Ms. Doris Greenleaf - 1979.

Included elsewhere in this newsletter is the Basic Fact Sheet and the Suggested Form for Nomination. Do not let the verbiage in the above mentioned materials discourage you from submitting nominations. The format is actually quite simple to complete. If there is any difficulty in the whole nomination process, it is in deciding which one or two of your trustees, both past and/or present should be honored with a nomination.

Honoring a trustee with a nomination will not only promote good will, but also can be the source of a library news item that the local media can utilize. It seems that the term "visibility" is constantly coming up in the library world. Here is a golden opportunity to increase your library's visibility by publicizing a trustee nomination.

By law, trustees serve without pay. If they cannot be paid, they can be honored by a nomination for the Third Annual Trustee Citation Award. -Jerry Schneider

- STATE LIBRARY AWARDED NDCHIPI GRANT -

The North Dakota State Library was awarded a grant for a humanities project, "Einstein: The Education of a Genius," from the North Dakota Committee for the Humanities and Public Issues. The project is an exhibit that will be displayed consecutively in fifteen public libraries in the state for two-week time periods. Each library will also have a film/lecture/discussion program using local humanities scholars whenever possible. Ruth Mahan is the State Library coordinator for the project.

NLW Celebration April 13-19

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK FOR 1980 is April 13-19. The lead poster (featured on the December cover of AMERICAN LIBRARIES) is a bold red, white, blue and black poster of the American flag, underlined with the words FREE and the message "America's Greatest Bargain...the Library." It is the work of award-winning Chicago designer John Massey who has created two more sophisticated and colorful posters for NLW. One is captioned "Discover America...Use Your Library" and the other says "Be a Superperson...Use Your Library." The 1980 collection is being rounded out with two additional posters. One is an exquisite photograph of the Grand Canyon with a caption, "Knowledge is free...America's Libraries," made possible through the cooperation of the National Geographic Society. The other is the delightful and charming 50th Anniversary portrait of Mickey Mouse reading by a fire with Pluto at his side. The caption is "READ." It is reprinted with permission of Walt Disney Educational Media Corporation. It's not too early to make plans for NLW "celebration." Libraries can request an order form which includes price list and color reproduction materials from 1980 Graphics. The American Library Association, Public Information Office, 50 E. Huron, Chicago, IL 60611. Phone: (312) 944-6780. Information can also be obtained from Sue Fontaine, Public Information Officer, Washington State Library, (206) 753-9690 or SCAN 234-9690. Sue is chairperson of the national NLW committee.

The NLW has established the following dates through 1990:

1981-April 5-11	1986-April 13-19
1982-April 18-24	1987-April 5-11
1983-April 17-23	1988-April 17-23
1984-April 8-14	1989-April 9-15
1985-April 14-20	1990-April 22-28

The dates were chosen with special attention given to avoiding conflicts with the dates of Easter and Passover.

LIBRARY MANAGEMENT SEMINAR -

The fifth annual administrative development program for library administrators, conducted by the School of Business at the University of South Dakota, Vermillion, will be held May 21-23, 1980. The seminar will concentrate on three important topics: (1 Planning; 2) Communication; and 3) Performance evaluation. Discussion topics will include, but not be limited to, action planning and objective setting, managing cut-backs, communicating with staff as well as various library publics, and performance evaluation. Designed to assist library administrators in improving their managerial effectiveness, the seminar will be valuable to all kinds of library administrators - public, academic, special, etc.

Program emphasis will be on problem-solving, and methods of instruction will include lectures and case analysis, as well as experiential exercises.

The fee is $185 which includes instructional costs, reading materials and other handouts, room and board, and transportation from and to airlines. Anyone interested in attending should contact the program director, Dr. C. N. Kaufman, School of Business, Vermillion, SD 57069, (605) 677-5232

NORTH DAKOTA LIBRARY TRUSTEE ASSOCIATION CITATION
BASIC FACT SHEET

- Purpose: The citation is presented to no more than two trustees annually in recognition of distinguished service to library development. The awards symbolize and honor the best contributions and efforts of the North Dakota citizens who serve or have served on library boards.
- Terms: Trustee service so honored may have been performed on the local, state, regional or national level, or at a combination of levels.
- Nominations: A nomination should be in the form of a comprehensive statement of the candidate's achievements. (See the following-"Suggestions for Nomination Form--Trustee Citations").
- Nominations may be submitted by any individual library trustee, librarian, library board, state library extension agency, state library association or state trustee association.
- The names of nominees who have not received awards may be resubmitted. The nominations should, however, be updated to show further accomplishments, if appropriate.
- Nominations for awards at the annual meeting must be submitted to the Chairperson of the Jury at the address given below, postmarked not later than July 18.
- Nominations must be no longer than five (5) double-spaced type-written pages. Three copies are requested.
- It is suggested that nominations not be lengthened by statements, petitions, essays, clippings, tear sheets, or by inclusion of non-library related information regarding the signature of the nominator. However, there may be signatures of co-sponsors and/or endorsing organizations and individuals, provided such additional signatures stay within the prescribed limitation of five double-spaced pages.
- Donor: North Dakota Library Association
- Date Established: 1978
- Previous Citation Winners: 1978--Ms. Dina Butcher (Minot)
1979--Ms. Doris Greenleaf (Devils Lake)
- Administered by: North Dakota Library Association--Trustee Section
- Selection by: A Jury on Citation of Trustees of three members, appointed by the president of the North Dakota Library Association--Trustee Section.
- Form of Citation: A printed citation of achievement, limited in length to 100 words, written by the members of the Jury.

Winners Announced and Awards Presented: Winners will be notified during the first full week in September. Presentation will be at an awards banquet at the annual convention of the North Dakota Library Association. (Winners are expected to be present to accept the award and expenses for attending must be borne by the recipients or their library organizations).

Those receiving the North Dakota Citation will be entered as nominees for the American Library Association Trustee Citations.

Deadline for Nominations: July 18

Chairperson of the Jury: Mr. Jerry Schneider
Box 1057
Dickinson, ND 58601

SUGGESTED FORM FOR NOMINATION--TRUSTEE CITATIONS

Each nomination for Trustee Citation will vary in style and tone and content, just as the contributions of trustees to library development will vary. Given below is a generalized outline of the information which should appear in this order in each nomination.

- A. Name (Use form preferred by candidate).
- B. Address (include home address, business address and library address, if appropriate).
- C. Library activities: This listing would include, but not be limited to, such library-related activities as board service, library association service, with offices held, dates of service, titles given, awards received. It might be helpful to list these in chronological order.
- D. Library accomplishment: This would include assessment and description of the nominee's contributions to library development which resulted from the library activities listed in section C.
- E. Comments, if any, which are pertinent to the nomination and which do not fall into any of the sections given above.
- F. Signatures: Signature, name and address of the nominating individual, individuals or organization. Followed by names and addresses of co-sponsors, if any, and of endorsing organizations and individuals.
- G. Date of the nomination.

Note that these suggestions do not include coverage of non-library activities. The nominator should use discretion in judging whether the nominee's non-library activities here, in fact, contributed to library development. For example, membership in a Rotary Club would not specifically be contributive to library development. However, if the nominee had chaired the Library Committee of the Rotary, this might be relevant.

Schools' library media programs vital

By PATRICIA HERBEL, DPI
 Coord., Library Services
 And Elementary Curriculum

The school library media program is a vital factor influencing the quality of the instructional program. As schools strive

HERBEL.

As schools strive toward educational excellence, the function of the library must change from a study hall dispersal center to a learning laboratory where students come to work intensively and productively. No longer is the librarian viewed as a book curator but as a teacher working directly with other teachers to facilitate and expediate their teaching and by working directly with students to effectualize and enhance their learning.

A sound library media program is much more than the sum of its parts — philosophy, goals, objectives, procedures, collection, equipment, facilities and staff. It is both a source and a force permeating, activating and motivating learning.

The Department of Public Instruction accreditation standards and criteria may be viewed as the basis for developing a library media program. The accreditation process is available to any school that voluntarily submits specific portions of its program to a review against predetermined standards. Although meeting the library media standards and criteria does not necessarily equate quality programming it is one step toward educational excellence.

In 1979 elementary accreditation standards were developed following the review of current literature, present standards and input from educators from the field. The library media section was strengthened in several areas: The professional academic preparation requirement was increased from 16 semester hours in library science to 16 semester hours in library science and 10 semester hours in audiovisual (MEO3). The incorporation into the program of all learning resources necessitates a broadening of the role of the librarian. The annual expenditure was increased from $5.00 to $7.50. The funding categorization was omitted to provide the librarian with the flexibility necessary for collection development. Two additional standards pertaining to the organization of materials and facilities were developed since, paramount to the success of the library media program is the access, retrieval and utilization of resources by each student and staff member. The requirement for two daily newspapers in a Level I school was reduced to one daily newspaper. It was noted by librarians, teachers and administrators that the money expended for the second paper could be better utilized in other areas of collection development. The 1973 professional and media aide time assignment standards and criteria will be maintained until the junior and senior high school accreditation standards are developed. Since the library media program is an integral part of the total district educational program it is appropriate to review these particular standards district wide.

To further assist school improvement in the elementary accreditation process certain levels of schools are required to conduct a self-study team visitation evaluation process.

The junior and senior high school accreditation standards are currently being revised.

State and regional guidelines including the "Handbook for Media Centers in North Dakota Schools" (DPI, 1975), the "1973 Administrative Manual for North Dakota Schools (DPI, 1973) and "Media Programs: District and School" (ALA AECT, 1975) are designed to assist schools in developing a sound library media program to implement, enrich, and vitalize the educational program as it strives to attain excellence in content, process, and product.

Staffer's work more efficient by using librarian's services

When a North Dakota legislator needs information, the request is often directed to the Legislative Council staff. Many such requests require extensive research and a working knowledge of the vast number of periodicals and documents received by the Council on a regular basis.

Prior to 1975, the attorneys and accountants on the staff had to take time themselves to find this information. This burden has since been considerably eased by the addition to the staff of a full-time research librarian.

Marilyn Guttromson has been research librarian on the professional staff of the Legislative Council since 1977. She's often the staff member who gathers the appropriate information to answer these staff requests.

A native of Williston, Marilyn received her bachelor of science degree in history and political science from Minot State College before doing graduate work in history at the University of North Dakota. Prior to joining the Council, she was the State Library's service to state government specialist.

During her tenure, Marilyn has had several part-time or temporary assistants. Currently, Olive McPherson and Fran Haas are preparing committee minutes for conversion to microfiche.

Olive, who is working under the Green Thumb Program, has been providing general library assistance since 1978. Fran was a proofreader during the 1979 Session and rejoined the Council staff on a part-time basis in September 1979. She will operate the rental camera in the microfiche project which, according to Marilyn, will permit Fran to continue her hobby of "fishing" throughout the winter months.

James Memorial Library

James Memorial Library named to National Register of Historic Places

The James Memorial Library, 621 1st Ave. W., Williston, has been named to the National Register of Historic Places, the nation's official list of cultural resources worthy of preservation.

The library, a Beaux-Arts Classical style, provides a measure of artistic and architectural diversity to the community. It has been a major center of culture and entertainment in Williston since 1911.

The library was built by Arthur Curtiss James as a memorial to his father, D. Willis James. The elder James had been a major stockholder in the Great Northern Railroad — James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern, named Williston in his honor.

At Hill's suggestion, the Civic League of Williston requested and received funds from the younger James to purchase land, construct the library, and buy books. Although a permanent maintenance fund was established by the community, Arthur James continued to support the library in times of local financial need.

The library was designed by R.S. Frost, a Minot architect, and built by W.W. Horton of Williston at a cost of $15,690. The domed structure is constructed of cream-colored Hebron brick in a "cross" shape. Most of the exterior architectural detail is limestone.

The interior retains much original detail, including an oak staircase and a stained glass skylight. The library has been used for public meetings, banquets, receptions, and other social events.

Resources eligible for the National Register consist of districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects significant for their historical, architectural, or archeological value. Integrity of location, design, setting, material, workmanship, and association are the criteria applied to such resources.

Once a resource is placed on the National Register, it receives limited protection from damage or destruction resulting from federally financed, assisted, or licensed undertakings on the property.

National Register properties are also eligible to be considered for historic preservation grant-in-aid monies administered in North Dakota by the State Historical Society.

Council library valuable for legislative research

Suppose you want to learn how many bachelors served in the 1979 Legislative Session.

Or, imagine you are an out-of-state researcher studying obscenity who has heard about North Dakota's exhibition driving law, and you want more information so you can spice up your report with what you think must be something about an obscene act.

Or, you are a North Dakota legislator and a constituent has asked you about a state agency you have never heard of.

Where would you go to get answers? You can start with the Legislative Council library, which has answered all of these questions, and many more.

The library, located in Room G-8 on the south side of the ground floor of the legislative wing in the Capitol, is a relative newcomer to legislative services in North Dakota. Although the services provided have been an integral part of the Legislative Council since its creation in 1945, library resources initially were an adjunct service. For many years the library consisted of mountains of publications and documents which were housed in the "vault", a small room now used for Legislative Data Processing in the Council offices.

In 1973 the library was moved to Room G-8, and in 1975 a full-time research librarian was hired.

In the last year, the library staff responded to 725 requests, ranging from the definition of emancipated minors in North Dakota to a request to locate a law passed in 1891 authorizing a reward for the development of a rain-making device.

Most requests come from other members of the Council staff, but the library also responds to requests from other state agencies, local officials, and private citizens, as well as from legislative service agencies throughout the country.

Because many of the documents are one-of-a-kind originals, the library is not a "lender" such as a public library where a user checks out books. Rather, the Legislative Council library staff frequently makes copies of those pages a user needs, or if the materials are not available, the staff often calls other libraries in state government to find them.

The 1979 Legislative Session was the first in which all standing committee minutes were recorded. The library staff has organized and indexed the 1,388 committee tapes, so they are available to anyone researching bills considered in that session or anyone attempting to determine legislative intent on any measure.

The library staff is currently putting all standing and interim committee minutes on microfilm. This not only protects these one-of-a-kind documents, but it also frees badly needed space. Original copies of the older minutes will be sent to the State Historical Society for preservation.

Some Of The Publications In The Library

The Legislative Council library contains a wide variety of materials and reference documents, many of which are not available from other sources. The following is a partial listing of some of the materials available:

1. North Dakota legislative documents, including bills introduced going back to 1923, House and Senate journals, standing committee minutes, and bill status reports.
2. North Dakota laws, including the North Dakota Century Code and its predecessors, and Session Laws.
3. North Dakota interim legislative committee documents, including Legislative Council reports, interim committee minutes, and special reports by consultants and others prepared for interim committees.
4. North Dakota legal reference tools, including the Northwestern Reporter and the Dakota Digest.
5. General legal reference books, including the United States Code Annotated, Words and Phrases, and treatises on statutory construction.
6. North Dakota Attorney

Generals' Opinions.

7. Publications and periodicals from the Council of State Governments, the National Conference of State Legislatures, the Advisory Commission of Intergovernmental Relations, and the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.
8. Publications and reports from legislative service organizations in other states.
9. Approximately 4,000 reports and studies from local, state and federal governments and other sources, arranged by subject and indexed in a ready-reference printout.
10. Magazines, bulletins and newsletters pertaining to issues in state government and other agencies.
11. A topic file of bills, statutes and articles concerning a wide range of current legislative concerns.
12. A subject file of North Dakota newspaper clippings beginning with the 1979 Session.
13. Copies of the reports published by the Regional Environmental Assessment Program (REAP).

On the Hill

With Bob Jansen

Marilyn Guttromson has a lot of answers.

She and her part-time helper at the North Dakota Legislative Council's library have been called upon to come up with 877 answers since the day before the 1979 Legislature convened.

Of those research requests, 253 were from council staff and 156 from lawmakers, with the rest divided among other state departments and agencies, the news media and citizens. The more frequent users of the minutes on file of standing and interim committees are the Supreme Court, attorney general and state auditor's office, she says.

Guttromson

Most inquiries relate in some manner to past, existing or proposed legislation. But there are other needs to be met, too, like one legislator's curiosity about how many bachelors were serving in the House and Senate during the 1979 session. A list of the unmarried male lawmakers was prepared.

Then there was the inquiry from a staffer at a legislative service office in another state about North Dakota's statute on exhibition driving. Taking the term "exhibition" out of context, he asked whether it might not be rather cold here for that sort of activity.

Many requests involve the preparation of bill histories from committee minutes and House and Senate journals. There are also inquiries about what may be happening with particular issues in other states. Some of those questions are answered through the library's contact with a data bank maintained by the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Sometimes the requests are a bit abstract, like the woman who came in this week unsure about what she wanted. "Somebody told me you had a report down here — I don't know what it looks like or its name," she advised Ms. Guttromson. After some searching, the document — a parents guide for educating the handicapped — was found.

Or, says Ms. Guttromson, "People come in and say they remember a green book that was on the third shelf next to a book that was blue." Usually it is located. "That's all part of the challenge," she advises.

There are requests for information that has nothing to do with North Dakota and its government. Somebody came in out of the blue (no pun intended, she says) and asked the name of the Air Force's crack flying team. The answer, of course, was the Thunderbirds.

Ms. Guttromson is assisted by Olive McPherson, a senior citizen who is paid by the Green Thumb Program. Their toughest request came during the 1979 Legislature's discussions of the rights of juveniles. A lawmaker asked for a precise definition of "emancipated minors." Through contact with social service agencies and other "scouting around" the answer was found.

The library also has 1,388 tapes of committee work from the 1979 Legislature. It takes space to store all of the documents, so the staff is in the midst of a project to put 98,400 pages of information — mostly committee proceedings — on microfiche. Microfiche is a small card on which up to 60 pages of microfilmed documents can be recorded. The original minutes and reports will be kept by the North Dakota Historical Society.

Hired on a temporary basis to do the microfiche filming was Fran Haas, a proofreader during the 1979 Legislature, who rejoined the council in September for the project. A microfilm camera has been rented from the 3M Co. for six months at a cost of $4,190.

Ways to obtain state publications listed

Although all legislators automatically receive copies of the North Dakota Century Code and the Session Laws, other citizens often ask how to obtain copies of official state publications.

The North Dakota Century Code, which contains all statutes, may be obtained from the publisher, The Allen Smith Company, 1435 North Meridian Street, Indianapolis, Indiana 46202. The complete 16 volume set, including current supplements and a one-year subscription service, costs $345. Individual volumes are available at prices ranging from $26.50 to $42, and the cost of 1979 Supplements is $102, including the general index.

The Session Laws, which contain all measures approved by a particular session, including veto messages and recent measures voted upon by the people, are available from the Secretary of State. The two-volumes of the 1979 Session Laws cost $25.

The North Dakota Administrative Code, which contains state agency rules and regulations, is published by the Legislative Council but distributed by the Secretary of State. The price for the current six-volume set is $150 and the price for monthly supplementation is $75 a year.

Copies of bills and resolutions as introduced are available without charge from the Legislative Council.

Copies of enrolled bills and resolutions, which are the final version of the measures as passed, are available from the Secretary of State at a cost of $1 for each four pages or fraction thereof.

Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wyoming

February 13, 1980

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Executive Board of the Mountain Plains Library Association has approved the awarding of four professional development grants during 1980. Each of the grants will be in the amount of at least $500, the final amount being determined by the actual expenses of the recipient. The grants are available to current members who have also been members of MPLA for the past two years. The grants may be used for formal classwork at a university, to attend workshops, conferences, seminars, or for independent study or any other activity which might benefit libraries in the MPLA region. Students, trustees, and unemployed members are also eligible.

Deadline for submission of grant applications is June 30, 1980. Some grants may be announced as early as May, but in order to accommodate late announcements of continuing education programs and programs which appear in late summer and fall, most grants will be announced in late summer 1980.

How to apply? Request an application form from: Joseph R. Edelen, MPLA Executive Secretary, University of South Dakota Library, Vermillion, SD 57069, or from your MPLA state representative, from a member of the Professional Development Grants Committee members, or from the MPLA Publicity Committee.

Included with the application form is information regarding the purpose, requirements for applications, conditions of the grant, and the detailed application procedures.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BUDGET PROCEDURES

Preparing your budget is an important step in securing funds for the coming fiscal year. Another important step is the justification for the funds that you are requesting from your governing body (city or county). The librarian and the president of the library board may need to appear at the budget hearing called by the city council or county commissioners, and be prepared to answer questions about the library operation. Bring with you any supporting evidence of need for the library budget.

Under North Dakota law, the 1981 fiscal year for public libraries starts July 1, 1980 and ends June 30, 1981. Budget preparation for the 1981 fiscal year should be in process now.

In building your library budget, consider all possible sources of income. These sources would include:

1. Library mill levy on the taxable valuation in the city or county operating the library. Up to four mills city and two mills county may be levied for the library funds. Additional mills may be levied upon a sixty percent vote of the people. Home Rule cities may be exempted from these limitations.
2. General funds available to the city or county governing body.
3. State funds available to the city and county such as:
 - (a) Personal property tax replacement
 - (b) Homestead Act tax replacement
 - (c) Mobile Home tax
 - (d) State Revenue Sharing funds
4. Grants from the State Library (HB-1588).
5. Federal funds available to the city and county such as:
 - (a) Revenue Sharing
 - (b) Community Development
 - (c) CETA
6. Contracts for furnishing library service to other cities, counties, townships or school districts.
7. Miscellaneous charges made by the library for such items as overdue, lost, or damaged library materials and for photocopying.

Public library budget procedures ... cont.

- 8. Interest on the investment of library funds.
- 9. Rent of properties owned by the library.
- 10. Donations from patrons.

Your estimated expenditures should equal your estimated income unless you are planning to use or build up your INTERIM FUND.

Libraries may establish a LIBRARY TRUST FUND for the investment of donations of monies, stocks and bonds to the library (NDCC 40-38-08).

Libraries may establish a LIBRARY BUILDING FUND for the building, leasing, lease-purchasing, or purchasing of a library building site therefor (NDCC 40-38-05).

In addition to the library mill levy, your library should also receive a share of the Mobile Home Tax, the personal property replacement money, and Homestead Act money. Also check with your city or county auditor on such important sources of funds as state and federal revenue sharing. Private contributions should not be overlooked as sources of income.

NDLA COMMITTEE RECEIVES PLANNING FUNDS

WILLISTON MOVES AHEAD WITH PLANNING GRANT

The NDLA Public Library Planning Committee entered into an agreement with the State Library to receive an LSCA planning grant of $3,431.00 at the Committee meeting at New Town, on April 25th. The grant request received the unanimous support of the Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries. The main purpose of the funds is to provide operating expenses for the committee in its planning activities. Funds for implementation of programs will be requested separately and are not a part of this grant. The Public Library Planning Committee has agreed to provide progress reports at regularly scheduled State Advisory Council meetings until June 30, 1981. A final, written report of plans or recommendations for planning will also be delivered to the Council by June, 1981. The committee is chaired by Jerry Kaup, Minot Public Library, and was formed under the Public Library Section of the NDLA. Cindy Schaff, Williston, is Public Library Sections Chairperson.

James Memorial Library (Williston) may get a new face, or at least a little make-up, according to Librarian Cindy Schaff. The library building was recently recorded in the Register of National Historic Places and has received a $25,000 planning grant for structural and architectural evaluation. Project architectural consultant, Dennis Hulsing, working with the architectural firm, Foss-Engelstad-Foss, from Fargo, will be looking carefully at the 70-year-old structure to determine structural improvements that might be necessary. Royce Yeater, historical architect, will also assist in insuring the purity of style characteristic to the architecture of the early twentieth century.

In addition to concern about the structure itself, certain community assessments will be necessary to determine feasibility of current and future use of the building as a library. Bill Heuer, public librarian at Lander, Wyoming, has been hired to consult on the project

SCHOOL LIBRARIES "FRANKLY" DISCUSSED BY MINOT AUTHOR

NDEA received a "frank" discussion in the April NDEA Journal issue. Edna Boardman, media specialist at Minot High School, gave some very interesting insights into establishing goals for service and supporting those goals with board adopted policies for implementation. Edna touched on topics such as atmosphere, noise, collection updating, and censorship. Thanks, Edna, for bringing some critical topics to the educator's attention.

as to future library needs of the Williston community and potential for meeting those needs from the historical structure. Heuer has experience with community analysis in local public library development, particularly in an energy impact area. Lander, Wyo. draws many parallels to Williston and so Heuer's assistance should be especially relevant to the rural, western community.

All of this activity is limited to planning, however. Implementation of specific activities and funds for those activities will be determined at a later date after study is complete. The federal funds are received through the N.D. State Historical Society and are matched dollar for dollar by the City of Williston.

CHIEF OFFICERS MEET

The regular meeting of the Chief Officer's of State Library Agencies (Richard Wolfert representing North Dakota) was held in Washington, D.C., on April 13-14, 1980. The proposed National Library and Information Services Act was reviewed and technical changes were recommended. A report was heard from the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science on its activities and in particular on the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services.

Eileen Cook, from the ALA Washington Office, brought a report on the status of funding for library programs.

Dick Hayes and other staff from the Office of Libraries and Learning Resources explained their position within the new Department of Education.

ACADEMICS CONSIDER
MLS DILEMMA

The North Dakota Academic Long-Range Planning Committee convened at the State Library on June 2, 1980 for a regular meeting. One significant item on the agenda was consideration of the legality of the MLS as an entry level requirement for a professional librarian under North Dakota State Personnel Classification System. While the problem is not new to other states (Ohio eliminated the MLS as a minimum qualification for employment in the Librarian job series in January, 1976), North Dakota is just beginning to consider the impact of national EEO rulings. ALA policy since 1970 has been to recognize the MLS as the basic requirement for librarian positions. While the North Dakota academic library directors seem to support the use of the MLS as a qualifying factor for employment to Librarian I, II and III positions, the State Central Personnel Division does not permit the use of the MLS, or any masters degree, to be used as a qualifying factor for application for employment in North Dakota State Library agencies (universities, colleges, State Library, State Historical Society, etc.). The Academic Committee learned from a representative of State Central Personnel that the burden of proof is on the library community to show why an ALA accredited degree or any masters degree would make any given individual superior to another who does not have an accredited MLS, but may have excellent experience and other education.

The State Library has received a formal memo from ALA expressing serious concern about the future, legal acceptability of the MLS as an application requirement for library positions.

The North Dakota Academic Committee is currently making further investigation into the issue and until some ruling change is made, the MLS will not be a requirement for application in North Dakota colleges and universities.

UND WILLISTON WITHOUT LIBRARIAN

The UND Williston Academic Library will function without a librarian, at least for the foreseeable future. A shortage of funds has caused the community funded institution to forego replacement of former librarian Greg Anderson for the immediate future. The library will be maintained however, by a faculty member on a half-time basis.

ACOL INSTITUTIONS COMMITTEE COMPLETES SITE VISITS

The ACOL Committee on Institutional Libraries has completed its tour of institutional libraries around the state. Committee chairperson, Jeanette Holm, along with committee members Coral Gayton and Margaret Teachout, finished their visits with a visit to The State School for the Deaf, Devils Lake, on March 28th. The committee is currently compiling its findings and expects to report at the October ACOL meeting.

VIDEO TAPE ON WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

"Bringing Information to People," a video tape on the White House Conference on Libraries and Information Services, has been received at the State Library. The 20-minute video cassette tape production reviews highlights of the Conference, including President Carter. The video tape is available for loan and is in the 3/4" U-Matic format.

DIVIDE COUNTY GETS NOTICE FROM "UNION FARMER"

North Dakota's first county public library was given proper notice by the May 29 issue of the North Dakota Union Farmer. The article presented a brief history of the library's development since its beginning in 1930. The school/public library is an excellent example of cooperation and community support in a rural section of our state. Hats off to Ruth Ralph and the people of Divide County.

FIFTH ASSEMBLY OF STATE LIBRARIANS

Richard Wolfert, North Dakota State Librarian, attended the Fifth Assembly of State Librarians at the Library of Congress, April 16-18, 1980, in Washington, D.C. The Assembly provided an opportunity for state librarians to exchange information with the Library of Congress staff on federal-state cooperative projects.

The new James Madison Memorial Building, a third building for the Library of Congress was toured. Of particular interest was the Congressional Research Service available to members of Congress and a tour of the vast book stack areas in the three buildings housing the collections of the Library of Congress.

FILING OF CARDS IN UNION CATALOG

The State Library continues to file cards received from libraries participating in the Union Catalog Program, except those libraries that are using OCLC (a computerized database) to catalog their books. The libraries that are using OCLC are the University of North Dakota, North Dakota State University, Bismarck Public Library, ND State School of Science, TBI - Ellendale, and the State Library. Since the State Library has an OCLC terminal, the staff can access the holdings of these libraries directly and need not maintain a manual catalog card file.

GUIDE FOR OCCUPATIONAL EXPLORATION

Recently the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau received a grant to distribute an occupational handbook, "Guide for Occupational Exploration," to selected academic and public libraries in the state.

The "Guide for Occupational Exploration" helps people in career planning by showing the types of jobs a person is suited to according to that person's interests and abilities. The guide is simple to use. It has an instruction sheet enclosed so that library patrons can use the guide on their own.

If your library has received a copy of the "Guide to Occupational Exploration," you may want to display it with your Educational Information Center materials because these services are closely linked.

If you have questions about the guide, you may contact your nearest Job Service office, or you may call Cynthia Bates at the State Library at 224-3295.

COMMUNITY EDUCATION GUIDE

The Minot Public Library, Jerry Kaup, Director, has recently printed the "Community Education Guide" prepared by Linda Sundfor, Information Specialist. This guide is an innovative and informative booklet listing the learning resources in the Minot community and indexing the resources according to subject.

This information service is a very useful community service. The State Library encourages local libraries to consider the provision of this service in their communities. Although there is no grant money available at the State Library to assist public libraries in starting this service, Cynthia Bates, State Library EIC Director, along with Jerry Kaup and Linda Sundfor, will provide consultation on the costs and methods of setting up a community education information service. If you wish to see a copy of the "Community Education Guide," or if you would like more information about this service, please call Cynthia Bates at the State Library on 224-3295, or the Minot Public Library on 852-1045.

PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS, PROBLEMS

If anyone in the North Dakota library community has any questions, comments, or suggestions concerning the services of the State Library, call or write Darrell McNamara, Head of Library Operations. Darrell supervises the statewide library services portion of the State Library. If you would like to talk to someone concerning the utilization of State Library services, please call Darrell at 224-2490.

STATE LIBRARY CHOSEN FOR FICHE FILE

The State Library has been selected as a repository for a micro-fiche collection from the Service Center for Aging Information (SCAN) of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In a letter announcing the library's selection, Robert Benedict, commissioner on aging, states that by the year 2000, one in every eight person (32 million men and women) in the United States will be over the age of 65.

"Information is critically needed to assist service providers, researchers, students and the elderly themselves in understanding the needs and interests" of this large and growing population, Benedict added.

The state library qualifies as a repository since it meets these criteria: accessibility of the collection to all persons, a barrier-free environment for physically handicapped persons, and an agreement to provide stated statistics semi-annually.

The service center's current newsletter, SCANNER, outlines procedures for ordering documents and a listing of selected titles of interest to older Americans and those who work, or are interested, in the field.

THE UNICORN

BY MARILYN GUTTROMSON

The Unicorn is a mythical beast found on tapestry and postcards dancing with medieval widows or lying in purple flower gardens.

So Unicorns are worn on walls and laid to rest in scrapbooks displaying their decorative virtues or concealing trails lost in shadows.

The silent and pure Unicorn is etched in threads and dreams
symbolizing the last of yesterday or promising to heal the remaining tomorrow.

Thompson to direct public library in VC

By Sandy Warren
Staff Writer

"Literature has always been one of my favorite things," said Sue Thompson, who says she chose to study library science because "I wanted outlets for expressing my love of books." That outlet will be available to Thompson beginning Dec. 1 when she takes over her position as director of the Valley City Public Library.

A 1974 graduate of Valley City State College, Thompson majored in English, while earning a minor in library science. "I always wanted to work with books," she says. "It interests me to see all the new kinds that are being published."

Thompson has worked with libraries in various capacities since her 1974 graduation. She served as curriculum librarian at VCSC through 1975, and was English teacher and librarian at Wimbledon the following year.

Serving as medical librarian at Mercy hospital was Thompson's next experience, while she was a library board member at New Rockford. Currently she is employed as a secretary at Valley City High School.

"A library is a friendly, inviting place," said Thompson. "It should be an active, fun place to be, so that you naturally want to take books out with you." Thompson wants to perpetuate that atmosphere at the Valley City Library, and hopes to implement community activities as well.

As director of the library, Thompson will have the opportunity to order new books, and plans to order those books that will appeal to the general public. Any individual interested in reading on a given subject will find the library employees a good resource to locate and recommend books, according to Thompson.

Members of the Library Board who were responsible for the selection of Thompson are: Steve Hoss, Diane Bjerke, Dr. Ted DeVries, Mavis Cohen, and Gunder Berg, all of Valley City. Also on the Board are Leota Morth, of Fingal, and Lois Rose, of Wimbledon.

Events at the library this week center around Children's Book Week, and include a children's play to be presented Saturday, Nov. 17, at 1:15, by the Tri Sigma Sorority of VCSC. Hours at the library are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, with an evening opening 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday. The library is open on Mondays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sue Thompson

Fargo school librarian to be honored

May 14

Ruth McMartin, director of instructional resources — that means head librarian — in the Fargo School District, will retire at the end of the school year.

A retirement reception open to the public in the South High School library will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. May 14.

Mrs. McMartin came to the Fargo system in July 1966.

She had been the high school librarian from 1955 in Celina, Ohio, which is just up the road a bit in western Ohio from Coldwater. In Coldwater, she worked with grades 1 and 2 for a year, beginning in 1954.

Prior to that, she worked three years as a cataloger at the University of Texas at Austin and three years as a reviser at the University of Illinois, where she received her master's degree in library science in August 1940.

In the Fargo system, she has coordinated grade, junior and senior high and special education library and audio-visual materials in 17 school buildings.

A member of the American Library Association and the American Association of School Librarians, she has served in various capacities and now is chairman of the latter group's media center facilities committee.

On a state and regional level, she has been a member of the North Dakota Library Association and the Mountain-Plains Library Association.

At the invitation of then-Gov. William L. Guy, she was appointed as a member of the first North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries in 1969. She served to 1971, was reappointed in 1977 and continues on the council that assesses statewide needs for library and information service.

VCSC faculty honors Jacobson

Testimonials to Lillian Jacobson's 24-year career at Valley City State College were given Tuesday evening as Mrs. Jacobson was honored at the Annual Faculty Spring Banquet upon her retirement as librarian at VCSC.

VCSC President Ted DeVries, representing the faculty and administration, presented Mrs. Jacobson with a plaque commemorating her years of service at the College.

Master of Ceremonies was Luther Skogen, director of college relations. Miss Charlotte Graichen, representing the Faculty MERITI 'Retired Faculty,' and Miss Ann Hugaard, representing library faculty, offered testimonials.

A native of Fingal, ND, Mrs. Jacobson attended VCSC from 1936 to 1940 and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in education. She served as libraian at Valley City High School from 1940 to 1944 and from 1944 to 1946 at Bismarck High School.

After several summer sessions at the University of Denver, Mrs. Jacobson was awarded the graduate of BC in Library Science in 1947. Before joining the VCSC faculty, Mrs. Jacobson also served as a librarian at Moorhead State and Northern Illinois University.

At VCSC Mrs. Jacobson served as an assistant librarian and then as director of the VCSC Library since 1956. Mrs. Jacobson is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma honor society and a member of the Executive Board of Delta Kappa Gamma. At VCSC, Mrs. Jacobson has served as a member of many campus committees and was elected the first woman president of the VCSC Faculty Association in 1974. At the April 1980 meeting of the State board of Higher Education Mrs. Jacobson was promoted to the rank of Professor Emeritus.

VCSC President Ted DeVries presents Lillian Jacobson, retiring VCSC librarian, with a plaque commemorating her 24 years of service to the college.

At MSC, no books are kept from Clenora Quanbeck

by Janice Overmoe

"When I was young, they took books away from me," says Clenora Quanbeck. But they could not keep them out of her grasp. At last count, she was surrounded by 79,000 volumes, all neatly stacked in the Mayville State College library.

For 28 years, Quanbeck has served as director of the college library. Effective the end of this summer, she will be leaving her position there. She says her interest in library work stems from her enjoyment of reading. "I've been a reader since the time I learned to read," she claims. And that is why books were often taken away from her, by adults who disapproved of some of her reading material.

Quanbeck is a native of McVile. She graduated from Oak Grove Lutheran High School in Fargo and then began attending Mayville State Teachers College. She took a one-year program and began teaching in rural schools. During the summers, she completed a second year of college to receive a Standard Certificate.

Eight years were spent as a teacher in rural schools in Griggs County and for one year she taught at Havana, N.D. Then, in 1943, she received the equivalent of a bachelor of science degree in secondary education from MSC. She majored in social science and minored in English and science. She continued teaching in Devils Lake, McVile, and Valley City while taking summer classes from the University of Minnesota. In 1947 she received a Bachelor of Science degree in Library Science from the U of M.

While in McVile, Quanbeck was principal, teacher, librarian, and newspaper and annual advisor. She spent six years there. Of her role as principal, Quanbeck says, "I liked it."

While teaching, Quanbeck began receiving job offers from MSC. The first offer as assistant librarian she turned down because she was unable to get a contract release from McVile. The second time MSC offered her a job as head librarian, but again she turned it down. "It was during the war," she explains, and science teachers were hard to find." So she stayed in McVile.

Finally, in January of 1952, MSC won out and has had the services of Quanbeck ever since. Quanbeck attended summer school at the University of Denver to get a Master's degree in Library Science in 1959. In 1961-62 she took a nine-month leave of absence to take advanced graduate classes at the University of Michigan.

In addition to her work as head librarian, Quanbeck was dorm director of West Hall for several years. "I made good friends," Quanbeck comments of her time as dorm director.

When Quanbeck began her duties at MSC, she was the only full-time librarian on the staff and was assisted by four students. In 1952, the library was located on second floor of the Main building with magazines on third and fourth floors. The library held about 24,000 volumes and used a 60-drawer card catalogue.

In 1979-80, the library employed three librarians as well as Quanbeck and hired an average of 16 student librarians. The library was moved in the late 1950s to its present location. In the 1960s, it was enlarged. Further changes include expansion of the work room and basement, and development of a music room and an audio visual room. The 79,000 volume library requires a 164-drawer card catalogue.

Quanbeck is responsible for another internal change which she says was part of her goal as librarian. When Quanbeck attended MSC, there was no library science program. Through her work, students may now minor in library science. Says Quanbeck, "One of my goals has been to train librarians in both practical and theory aspects of librarianship."

The library only hires students who are minoring in library science. Quanbeck has taught many of the library classes, including Reference, Selection of Materials for Media Centers, Techniques of Media Center Operation, Materials for Elementary School Media Centers, Material for Secondary Schools, History of Books and Libraries, Media Administration, Utilization of Media, and Special Problems in Media Education.

Besides teaching, Quanbeck approved all library purchases. Every book ordered by the library first passed the head librarian's scrutiny. Quanbeck applied a set selection policy and checked several reviews before ordering. "I don't believe in censorship," she says. Instead she tried to "get the best with the money we had."

In her role as head librarian, Quanbeck regularly attended conventions of the American Library Society and the regional Mountain Plains Library conventions. She served a term as president of the North Dakota Library Association and was a member of the NDLA academic committee. The Long-Range Planning Committee of Academic Libraries is another organization with which she has worked.

Within the college, Quanbeck has chaired the Library Committee whose purpose is to consult and advise the library. Up until a few years ago, Clenora Quanbeck is retiring as the end of this summer after 28 years of service Mayville State College head librarian at the at the college.

Quanbeck also had charge of setting library open hours.

Inside the library, Quanbeck, with the assistance of other librarians, catalogued books, served as a reference guide, lectured, and helped faculty and students in their use of the library.

Besides seeing changes in structure and statistics, Quanbeck has been able to observe attitudes through yer years at MSC. "I liked attending school at Mayville. It had a friendly atmosphere," Quanbeck cites as one of her reasons for coming. Of the small college and small town, Quanbeck still says, "I think it's great. There's been a fellowship between students and faculty that's not evident in large schools, a spirit of comradeship."

She admits that students have gone through cycles, though. "Students were more serious when I started," she says, adding that in the 1960s she detected a trend towards relaxed attitudes. "But now the students seem down-to-earth."

"As for reading trends, the quality of fiction is on the downgrade." She says In non-fiction you find materials on subjects that were taboo when I came. No topic seems to be 'hush-hush,' which I think is fine." Quanbeck notes that more library users are looking for non-fiction books. This may be due in part, she believes, to the availability of television to present fiction in today's society.

Quanbeck has no plans for her retirement. She enjoys gardening, woodworking, crocheting, needlepoint, and sewing, as well as reading. But she does not think these activities will keep her from getting bored.

"I'm not satisfied doing that. I'm not looking forward to retiring."

Quanbeck admits that she may be a "workaholic," and if that's the case, as it appears to be in observing her 28 years of dedication to MSC, she will find something she enjoys doing. As for Mayville, Quanbeck intends to stay here. She may travel some, but as she says, "I have found Mayville enjoyable enough that I have bought a house here and choose to live here."

STATE LIBRARY BUDGET

AROUND THE STATE

On August 1, 1980 the State Librarian submitted the 1981-83 budget request to the Governor's Executive Budget Office.

The budget consists of nine programs or divisions which sets forth the financial needs to operate the State Library during the 1982 and 1983 fiscal years.

The program, "State Aid to Public Libraries", is a substantial amount of the total budget request. $1,400,000 is requested and includes $100,000 for projected population increases, additional eligible libraries, and higher level of local effort which require more state funds. An additional $300,000 is also being requested to provide a "deficiency" appropriation for the 1981 fiscal year. If funded by the Legislature in January 1981, then the State Library grants to public libraries would be at the same level as they were in the 1980 fiscal year. Total budget request for this program is $1,700,000.

The program, "Federal Programs - Planning, Development, Education, and Advisory Council", amounts to $297,755 for the biennial period. This program includes the salaries, travel and other costs of 2.5 existing staff plus a children's consultant (as recommended by NDLA) and a 0.5 clerical supplement program. Also included are $28,160 for continuing education, and $19,000 for Advisory Council expenses.

The program "Service to the Blind and Physically Handicapped" amounts to $142,000 for the existing "Talking Book" service provided by contract with South Dakota. A request to add an 0.5 librarian to coordinate volunteer workers, and to provide public information and promote the service (plus travel and other costs) would cost $40,010.

* The first year of House Bill 1588 (State Aid to Public Libraries) fund allocations is nearing a close and most eligible libraries have received their fiscal year 1979-1980 allotments. Some of the communities most recently receiving grant money are Leonard, Mohall, Pembina, and Hebron.

* Recently, the State Library received an interpretation from the Assistant Attorney General, John Adams, stating that city and county auditors (acting as fiscal agents for their governmental unit) should now be the authorized agents to receive state aid funds. They, in turn, will put the funds into a local library fund, which will be managed by a local library board.

* The Leonard, Mohall, Pembina, and Hebron auditors were the first in the state to directly receive state aid funds since their eligibility was clarified after the Assistant Attorney General's interpretation was received.

The N.D. Association of the Blind has requested that the "Talking Book" Service be provided directly from the State Library in Bismarck. The costs for this program would be an additional $343,909 including $125,000 in start-up costs for a "Talking Book" total of $485,909. The N.D. Association of the Blind is also requesting the inauguration of the "Radio Talking Book" service under contract with the State of Minnesota. Public radio stations in Grand Forks, Fargo, Belcourt, and Bismarck would transmit programs of interest to handicapped persons. The cost for this service would be $99,000 for the biennium. Total for this entire program is $584,909.

The program, "State Institutional Library Service" consists of grants to state institutions (Blind, Deaf, Industrial School, Grafton State Hospital, State Hospital in Jamestown, and Soldiers' Home in Lisbon) and the State Penitentiary Library which is operated as a branch of the State Library. The total biennial cost of this program is $73,404. An added 0.5 librarian combined with additional 0.5 librarian in the blind and physically handicapped program to take a full time position, travel and other costs would bring the entire state institutional program to $104,514.

The program "Educational Information Center" would cost $156,404 for the biennium and is not LSCA funded. This activity consists of the collection, organization, and dissemination of information about post-secondary education and training opportunities in N.D.

The program, "Development of Public Library Service" is a long-standing LSCA priority. It has not been implemented during the past two bienniums because no funds were appropriated for this program by the State Legislature. The request for the 1981/83 biennium is $200,000 in grants for extending public library service to areas without service or with inadequate service. Interlibrary cooperation projects would also be eligible.

The program, "Library Service to State Government", is to provide information and reference service to state agencies, access to statewide library resources, consultant services to departmental libraries, and citizen access to information about state government. This program is operated entirely with state funds. Improvements requested include two additional staff, CATS (Citizen Access to State Government) IN-WATS line for information about state government, new edition of the ND Blue Book, and research and publications. Total cost for the program is $392,944.

The Administrative program for the entire agency which maintains financial and administrative records and controls, and secretarial services consists of three staff members. An additional person is requested to assist in meeting the additional work load resulting from HB 1588 and other federal, state, and local reporting requirements. The total cost of the program is $189,049 for the biennium.

The Statewide Library Program, the oldest (since 1907) and the one most familiar to librarians and to citizens, consists of maintaining a general public library service available to school, college, university, city, county, and special libraries to supplement their own libraries as well as to citizens directly throughout the state.

Another component of this program is the maintenance of the teletype/telephone communication network, the union catalog, and the MINITEX service agreement.

To assist in the growing workload experienced in this program, 2 additional staff are requested. The total cost of the program is $1,217,482

Historically, this statewide library service program has been state funded from 1907 to 1957. Since 1957 increasing amounts of federal funds have been utilized in this program. While the State Librarian has consistently requested state funding for this program so as to permit the federal funds to be utilized in other programs, the Executive Budget Office and the Legislature has always denied this request. A new factor has entered the scene for the 1981/83 biennium. LSCA authorization ends in the 1982 fiscal year, and it is expected to be replaced with a new federal library act which may no longer permit the State Legislature to utilize federal money in this program. Thus, state funding becomes a necessity for this budget request or it could mean the end of a time honored and needed service.

The Total State Library budget request is $4,843,057. Of this amount, administration accounts for $189,049; $1,610,426 is for library services (staff, books, etc.) and $2,197,755 for aid to city and county libraries (financial, consultive, educational);

EDUCATIONAL INFORMATION CENTER SURVEY

The Educational Information Center division of the State Library is gearing up for a new year of services---the first full school year of EIC services.

An important part of the program of providing educational information services is the evaluation of those services. The EIC wants proof that the services it provides are helpful or useful to the clientele receiving those services. A very short survey has been developed to serve this purpose. A large (5x8) postcard has been printed with three questions--- "How did you hear about Educational Information Center (EIC) services?", "Did you get the information you were looking for? - OR- Did you find out who to contact to get the information you were looking for by using EIC-TAPE, toll-free number 1-800-342-4200?", and "If you didn't get the and $689,423 for special library services (Blind, institution, etc.). Sources of income are: $800,000 of federal; $3,906,653 of state; and $136,404 of other.

A summary by percentage shows:

- 3.9% - administration
- 24.1% - statewide operations
- 8.1% - state governments service
- 6.1% - planning, development, education, advisory council
- 2.2% - state insititutions
- 12.0% - blind & physically handicapped
- 3.2% - Educational Information Center
- 40.4% - grants for public library service and development

The Executive Budget Office will analyze the State Library budget request and make recommendations to the Governor. The Governor will include the State Library budget in his overall State Budget for the 1981 legislature.

The NDLA Legislative Committee is monitoring the State Library budget and will be providing testimony at appropriate points in the budget process.

NDLA members who desire to comment to the Governor on any part of the budget should do so soon.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

The Public Library Association has scheduled a regional program to introduce A PLANNING PROCESS FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES. The programs will be directed to state library agency personnel and public librarians and trustees who are interested in implementing the Planning Process. The programs are designed to explain and clarify the reading of the manual which resulted from the U.S.O.E. funded study "The Process of Standards Development for Community Library Service."

The programs will be presented in conjunction with the Mountain Plains Library Association's conference in Omaha, October 30.

A PLA Executive Officer will chair each meeting.

Registration information can be obtained by writing Shirley C. Mills, PLA Executive Secretary, Public Library Association, 50 E. Huron Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611 or call 312/944-6780.

Tuition expenses occurring as a result of attendance at this program are eligible for reimbursement under the N.D. Tuition Reimbursement Program. Applications for reimbursement may be obtained from North Dakota State Library, Office for Planning & Development, Highway 83 North, Bismarck, N.D. 58505.

information you were looking for, what additional information do you need?". By using this simple survey tool, the EIC hopes to find out the usefulness of the information provided and what can be changed to improve the service.

These cards will be distributed to high school counselors and other counselors around the state so that students and other people receiving educational or career counseling can answer the questions to various libraries around the state so that library clientele who use EIC services can be surveyed.

The card will be sent out during September so watch your mail for the cards, and instructions on your part of the survey.

Your participation in providing Educational Information Center services is appreciated!

ACOL INTEGRATES COMMITTEE SYSTEM WITH STATE PLAN

The North Dakota Advisory Council on Libraries has three official functions as delineated by the federal law under the Library Services & Construction Act. These are:

1. To advise state agency on development of State Plan, including preparation of long-range (5-year) and annual (1-year) programs.
2. To advise state agency on policy matters in administration of State Plan.
3. To advise state agency in evaluating library programs, services and activities under State Plan.

ACOL COMMITTEE SYSTEM (cont'd)

Because of the Council's responsibility to the State Plan, Council Committees have been established according to the program chapters in the State Plan. Issues involving changes in the Plan or its resulting programs are brought to the appropriate committee for initial consideration and study. The Committee then gives its recommendations to the full Council for a resolution vote. Issues can be sent back to the Committee several times for amendment or study before receiving a full Council vote. Once approved, resolutions are forwarded to the State Library for consideration as an advisement. Any citizen of North Dakota can request and receive agenda time before the Council. The Council meetings are open to the public and information regarding past or future meetings can be obtained from Jeff Fox or Mary Braaten at the State Library, Office for Planning & Development, 224-3296. The next regularly scheduled ACOL meeting is in Minot, October 1 & 2, 1980.

PROPOSED ALA LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

In view of the current debate and discussion of national library legislation the Flickertale will run a series of articles that will be informative to library interests across the state.

The following program is based on the resolutions adopted by the White House Conference on Library and Information Services, the proposed National Library Act (s. 1124) and testimony and discussion on that bill at the conference, the COSLA legislative proposal, the WHCLIS testimony of ALA President Thomas Galvin, and the ALA Federal Legislative Policy statement. The elements of this program are not ranked in any significant order.

- Full funding of LSCA, HEA and ESEA until such time as these library programs may be amended or replaced, with ESEA Title IV-B designed as categorical aid for school libraries. Full funding for the Library of Congress and the medical library programs.
- Establishment of a national periodicals system.
- Enactment of federal postal and telecommunications rates which will facilitate the sharing of resources and information between libraries, educational institutions and nonprofit information agencies.
- Establishment of the position of Assistant Secretary for Library and Information Services within the Department of Education.
- Enactment of a National Library and Information Services Act which would provide for increased funds for interlibrary cooperation, new funds for literacy, increased federal support for maintenance of public libraries with special emphasis upon aid for rural, urban and economically depressed areas, restored funding for public library construction, increased funds for outreach and meeting the needs of special clients, support for information and referral services, and adequate support to state agencies to permit the administration of these programs.

ALA PROGRAM (cont'd)

- Enactment of new legislation which will increase the number of certified school library and media personnel in school libraries and media centers, and authorize innovative demonstration projects and certified library instruction.
- Enactment of new or amended legislation which will authorize increased support for academic libraries, facilitate research collection development and expand materials preservation and personnel development programs.
- Establishment of a National Library Services for the Deaf as a new division of the Library of Congress.
- Enactment of a National Indian Omnibus Library Bill.
- Progress toward an equitable and reasonable pricing structure for federal documents to ensure their availability to all libraries not part of the federal depository system. Strengthen and expand the system of federal depository libraries, including regional depositories.
- Support increased funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.
- Support reauthorization of the National Historical Publications and Records Commission with sufficient funding to permit it to implement needed programs.
- Enactment of legislation restoring tax incentives for authors and artists to encourage the donation of their manuscripts and original works to libraries and museums.
- Enactment of federal programs eliminating international barriers to the exchange of library materials and information, and the support of national and international standards.

CHANGES IN U.S. MAIL SERVICE BEING CONSIDERED

Representative Whitten (D-Miss.) has introduced H.B. 7337 which would amend title 39 of the U.S. Code in order to prohibit the Postal Service from limiting regular daily mail delivery to fewer than six days each week. It has been referred to the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service. Discussions will include which day mail delivery should be eliminated--not necessarily Saturday. Apparently, the day for non-delivery could vary from region to region, depending on needs of the specific region.

Postal authorities estimate that the quasi-governmental agency will lose $593 million this year, despite programs to save money and energy. One plan that requires most postal employees to deliver mail on foot, rather than in vehicles has saved almost 150,000 gallons of gasoline but has added 41,000 work hours.

Taken from NORTH DAKOTA NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION BULLETIN, June 1, 1980.

CARTER LIBRARY BUDGET, FY 1981

President Carter transmitted his FY 1981 budget on January 28. The new Department of Education, although not in operation until later this spring, has a separate budget (instead of being included with HEW) of $15.5 billion for an increase for education of $1 billion or 7 percent. Thanks to the efforts of delegates to the White House Conference on Library and Information Services, and to the intervention of the new Secretary of Education, this year's budget is considerably more favorable to libraries than last year's "lean and austere" budget. Recommended amounts for the major library programs are shown below:

FALL COUNCIL MEETING AT MINOT

The ACOL will hold its quarterly meeting at the Minot Holiday Inn, October 1st and 2nd, 1980. The meeting is open to the public. The Council is set to discuss a variety of topics and Council committees are preparing reports for State Plan review at the meeting.

The committee on the PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED recently visited the South Dakota State Library to see the special library facilities there for serving the blind and physically handicapped. Doris Greenleaf, Nelle Wang and committee chairman George Saiki accompanied State Librarian Richard Wolfert on a special tour of the South Dakota facility hosted by former S.D. State Librarian Vince Anderson. A brief slide presentation is planned for the Council meeting.

The INSTITUTIONS committee, after advising the State Library on current LSCA Institutional grants, will direct its attention to presenting a final report to the Council on its statewide survey of institutional libraries. The main thrust of the survey was to determine the role and priority of the library facility within the institution. Committee members Coral Gayton, Margaret Teachout, and chairperson Jeanette Holm have made all visitations and have compiled the data for this report.

The PUBLIC LIBRARY DEVELOPMENT Committee shall report on its revision of Chapter Seven of the State Plan. This report shall include a revised system of local service and responsibilities for planning purposes. Committee members Nelle Wang, Harry Middaugh, Doris Greenleaf and Chairperson Ora Marie Stewart have encouraged a position paper from Minot Librarian Jerry Kaup on area service responsibilities. It is hoped that Jerry will present his paper at this meeting.

Finally, the INTERLIBRARY COOPERATION Committee, coming off it's spring conference, will report on plan changes and propose short range (1 year) and long range (3-5 years) proposals for Council consideration. Data from the Interlibrary Cooperation Conference, held in Moorhead, Minn., May 30, 1980, will be formally presented and discussed. It is possible some regional activities may evolve from this committee's suggestions.

Additional agenda items for this Council meeting will include a report on ALA Convention in New York City by Dina Butcher and a discussion concerning new activities at the national level for White House Conference participants.

Council agenda will be closed September 15, 1980 for the October meeting. Any citizen of North Dakota may receive agenda time previous to that date by making written request to the State Library. Final agendas will be published September 24, 1980 and are also available on request.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN REPORT READY

The State Library Office for Planning & Development has published the second quarter, Interlibrary Loan Report for North Dakota. This report is available on request from the Office for Planning & Development.

MR. BOSTON GOES TO WASHINGTON (STATE, THAT IS)

Advisory Council member Bob Boston has left North Dakota for a similar position with Educational Broadcasting in Olympia, Washington. During Bob's two years as a member of the N.D. Advisory Council on Libraries, he has contributed his ability to consider issues objectively and with moderation. The stability he lent the Council will be missed. Bob was a Committee member for the Physically Handicapped, and on the State Plan administrative committee. Bob started his new position in Washington state September 1st. Best wishes go to Bob and his wife Mary as they make a new home in the Northwest.

THE NORTH DAKOTA GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE RESOLUTIONS

UPDATE - 1980

The North Dakota Governor's Conference of October 1978 yielded twenty resolutions. These resolutions were distilled from an intricate process of local delegate meetings, regional meetings and statewide meetings. The resolutions are largely a product of the lay library community. Once produced, the twenty resolutions were prioritized in June, 1979. Many events have occurred and many activities have been undertaken that directly or indirectly affect these twenty resolutions.
NOTE: Resolutions are presented in order of priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #1 - - CONTINUING EDUCATION

WHEREAS, current continuing education opportunities for professional and volunteer library staff and library trustees do not foster effective delivery of library services and do not encourage realistic self-perceptions regarding their role in providing services to the community;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: by the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Library and Information Services, that the State Library Commission and/or the North Dakota Library Association be strongly encouraged to take the initiative in developing and implementing a comprehensive, multi-year program of continuing education for professional and voluntary public library trustees, and

THAT such continuing education emphasize training in areas as effectively measuring community needs, effective use of public relations to broaden citizen awareness of library services, development of community support for increased resources, and effective techniques in dealing with the political process at the local and state level, and

THAT such continuing education be provided in various geographic areas of the state and that the State Library Commission and/or the North Dakota Library Association aggressively seek funding from any available source including state, federal, and private sources, to cover the expenses of such a program.

RESULTS:

The State Library has revised its tuition reimbursement program to include all categories of public librarians and has expanded the scope of reimbursement programs. The North Dakota Library Association, through its Public Library Planning Committee, has initiated discussion on a state-wide system of educational programs designed for all levels of local library use. The Public Library Telephone Network (ETN) is now being implemented to facilitate statewide participation in library continuing education. A joint relationship with Wisconsin is being developed to deliver prepackaged library education programs to all of our state. A system of voluntary certification is currently being developed jointly by the State Library and the North Dakota Library Association.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #2 - - STATE FUNDING FOR THE STATE LIBRARY

WHEREAS, the State Librarian in budget requests since 1971 has sought state funding for operation of the State Library; and

WHEREAS, those budget requests have been seriously modified to maximize the use of Federal Funds; and

WHEREAS, with the uncertain availability of Federal Funds in the future and the current rate of inflation;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services encourage the 1979 Legislative Assembly to appropriate sufficient state funds for the operation of the State Library thereby freeing whatever federal funds become available for improving local library service.

RESULTS:

The State Library's budget request for the 1981-1983 biennium includes state funding for its operation, and federal library Service and Construction Act funds for Public Library development.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #3 - - MAINTENANCE AND ESTABLISHMENT OF SECONDARY AND ELEMENTARY SCHOOL LIBRARIES

WHEREAS, children are the future of North Dakota and must be educated, trained and prepared for that future; and the North Dakota Department of Public Instruction has established standards for school libraries in the State of North Dakota;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: by the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services that the North Dakota Department of Public Instruction strongly encourage each elementary and secondary districts in the state to establish libraries and staff them at or above specific minimum accreditation standards.

RESULTS:

A professionally trained elementary school librarian is required for school accreditation (beginning September, 1980) under current voluntary state elementary accreditation program.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #4 - - INTERLIBRARY CONTINUING EDUCATION

WHEREAS, librarians and media specialists in North Dakota require current information about new technologies, services, and materials; and continuing education is important to all levels; and the primary institutions awarding these credits are colleges, universities and the State Library;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services encourage North Dakota institutions of higher learning, the Department of Public Instruction, and the State Library in their pursuit of channels for increased continuing education opportunities.

RESULTS:

The State Library, through the North Dakota Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries has begun the process of planning and development of interlibrary cooperation program in its review of Chapter 10 of the State Plan for Library Development. A major part of that revision and the cooperation effort will be in the area of cooperative continuing education. A program narrative and budget has been prepared and is being submitted for the 1980-1981 biennium for funding of cooperative educational projects.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #5*- - FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

WHEREAS, few communities in North Dakota have active and interested "Library Friends", and such groups if established would contribute to the support of local librarians by receipt of private funds and as well as improve the image of library services;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: by the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services that each library community in North Dakota lacking a Friends Group be encouraged to establish one; that such organizations be created as tax exempt nonprofit foundations for receipt and expenditure of local development funds.

RESULTS:

No action on this resolution.

* Asterisk indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #5*- - INTERLIBRARY COOPERATION

WHEREAS, library materials are available through a variety of facilities in each area of the state, but many of these facilities do not offer totally adequate resources,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the voluntary cooperation, coordination and communication among libraries be developed, particularly at community, county and multi-county levels.

RESULTS:

The North Dakota Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries hosted an Inter-library Cooperation Conference in May to initiate dialog for increasing cooperation coordination and communication among librarians. The North Dakota Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries (ACOL) committee on Interlibrary Cooperation is expected to report to the full ACOL in October and recommend long range planning perceptions as well as short range (annual) projects ready for implementation. It is possible that such a conference will become an annual event.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #6 - - COMMUNITY LIBRARY SERVICES ACT (HB-1588)

WHEREAS, the North Dakota Library Association Legislative Committee with direction from the State Library has produced the 1979 Community Library Services Act; and

WHEREAS, the development, growth and improvement of public libraries and services will be directly affected; and

WHEREAS, improved public services contribute immensely to the quality of life in North Dakota;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services strongly support passage of the 1979 Community Library Services Act by the 1979 Legislative Assembly.

RESULTS:

The Community Library Services Act (HB-1588) became law in May, 1979 and has been implemented.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #7*- - MANDATED FUNDING RULES

WHEREAS, if a legislated program be mandatory, and

WHEREAS, funds are not always available at the local level to implement said program,

* Asterisk indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

BE IT RESOLVED; to encourage that mandated rules be implemented with funds from the federal or state level depending on the origin of the mandate.

RESULTS:

Local communities have not received any mandate requiring support for any federal or state programs.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #7*- - CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

WHEREAS, children are the future of North Dakota and must be educated, trained, and prepared for that future;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services support increased emphasis on children's services in all libraries under the direction of adequately trained personnel.

RESULTS:

During the Year of the Child the Council for Arts and Humanities had various children's programs. The State Library has requested, in its current budget request, for the funding of a children's library consultant for statewide service to public libraries.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #8 - - LOCALLY UNSERVED AREAS

BE IT RESOLVED: that communities or areas not served by a library should avail themselves of existing library facilities in order to have services brought to them, and further that they foster a cooperative atmosphere in which resources can be coordinated in order that all communities can be served.

RESULTS:

The ACOL Public Library Committee, in its review of the State Plan, Chapter 7 (Public Library Service Development), is studying the State Library's current and potential impact on areas of the State not organized under NDCC 40-38 (Public Library Law).

The State Library has already implemented a program of notification and development of local library service utilizing inputs of the Community Library Service Act (HB-1588). A process of planning and implementation for local library service in small communities (population under 3,000) has been developed and is currently being tested in one community of North Dakota.

* Asterisk indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #9*- - STATEWIDE NEEDS ASSESSMENT

WHEREAS, the present image of North Dakota Libraries is such that a very small percentage of people use the services of the library,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services strongly urge the State Library Commission that a standardized professional survey be designed, be coordinated on a statewide basis, and be administered locally in order to determine the library needs of our communities.

RESULTS:

No action to date.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #9*- - PUBLIC USE OF PUBLIC SCHOOL LIBRARIES

WHEREAS, public school libraries of the state of North Dakota as tax supported facilities, are under-utilized,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the delegates to the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services encourage North Dakota school boards, school administrations, and teachers, (and parents) to provide free and open public access to public school libraries beyond normal school hours and at reasonable hours during summer months for the same benefits of all members of the public.

RESULTS:

No new action to date.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #10 - - STATE LIBRARY MOVE TO THE CAPITOL

WHEREAS, the State Library in its present location on Highway 83 North in Bismarck continues to expand its collection and serves in expensive, limited rented space;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services endorse the move by the State Library as approved by the 1977 Legislative Assembly into the Liberty Memorial Building on the Capitol Grounds when the State Historical Society transfers to the North Dakota Heritage Center.

RESULTS:

The Director of Institutions has requested funds in his 1981-83 biennial budget for the interior remodeling and restoration of the Liberty Memorial Building. The State Library would move into the Liberty Memorial Building in the spring of 1982. Exterior renovation of the building is currently being done.

* Asterisk indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #11*- - VOLUNTARY GROUP PROCESSING

WHEREAS, there are needs by all library facilities; and all these needs cost money; and savings are necessary because of limited budgets;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that an attempt be made by the State Library Commission to investigate the various areas where voluntary group purchasing can be considered.

RESULTS:

No action to this date.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #11*- - LIBRARY SERVICES TO NETWORK CATALOG

WHEREAS, a knowledge of library services and information networks presently functioning in North Dakota would be of great value in planning for library services on the state and local level,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services urge the State Library Commission, in cooperation with the North Dakota Library Association, to compile and periodically revise a catalog, with abstracts, of library services and information networks presently functioning within the state, and

THAT such a catalog be provided to all legally established libraries within the state to facilitate planning and to avoid duplication.

RESULTS:

A brochure has been developed and disseminated explaining resource and services of State Library. A manual has been developed and disseminated for the North Dakota Network for Knowledge. A new more detailed interlibrary cooperation manual is currently under development.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #12 - - PERMANENT AREA TASK FORCES

WHEREAS, the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services has provided a useful forum for a statewide representation group of North Dakota citizens to discuss the information needs of residents of the state and since such a forum is viewed of continuing importance; now

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that delegates to the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services endorse the establishment of permanent area task forces on information needs in North Dakota in coordination with the Governor's Advisory Council on Libraries.

* Asterisk indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #12 - - PERMANENT AREA TASK FORCES (Cont'd)

RESULTS:

No action on this resolution.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #13 - - COMPUTER DATA BUSES

WHEREAS, access to computerized data bases would be a great benefit to the citizens of North Dakota;

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: The North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services endorse the provision of this additional service to all citizens of the state through the State Library network.

RESULTS:

In addition to Fargo Public Library's acquisition of the New York Times Data Base, other larger North Dakota Libraries are planning the addition of similar computer base data sources. The State Library has added the Lockheed Dialog to its resource bank.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #14 - - USER FEES

WHEREAS, user fees are becoming a major concern in library services,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services urges that no additional user fees should be imposed on the citizens of the supporting jurisdiction for traditional library services.

RESULTS:

There have been no additional user fees for library tax levied political subdivisions for users of traditional library services.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #15*- - PUBLICIZING LIBRARY SERVICES

BE IT RESOLVED: by the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services that librarians and trustees, thoroughly acquaint with all facets of existing library services, sponsor a cooperative campaign to publicize those same services across the State of North Dakota.

* Asterick indicates resolutions holding equal priority.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #15*- - PUBLICIZING LIBRARY SERVICES (Cont'd)

RESULTS:

In addition to the State Library branch users, areas (particularly without local library service) have been encouraged to consider local service by utilizing HB-1588 as an incentive. The State Library consulting staff have also, when appropriate, encouraged local entities to consider service by publicizing benefits of library service.

RESOLUTION PRIORITY #16 - - GRATITUDE TO DELEGATES

WHEREAS, the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services has been a very effective conference because of the fine staff work in the preparation and conduct of the Conference,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: that the North Dakota Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services go on record as commending Mrs. Dina Butcher, the North Dakota Library Association and the entire staff of the Conference for their fine work in conducting a very effective conference for the benefit of library services in North Dakota, and

THAT the entire staff be given a standing ovation by the delegates to the Conference to express their thanks to the staff.

RESULTS:

While the National White House Conference is over and the WHCOLIS administration and staff has been disbanded, the opportunity for continued activity of delegates has not been completely abanded. Delegate participation is currently under study at the State Library.

Certainly, in any case, we owe our delegates, Dina Butcher, and the NDLA graditude for the increased visibility of library service throughout our state.

North Dakota Interlibrary Cooperation Conference
Moorhead, Minnesota
May 30, 1980

THE EVALUATION OF LIBRARY NETWORK PERFORMANCE

I'm delighted to be here and very pleased to have had the chance to take part in this Conference on the future of interlibrary cooperation in North Dakota. I especially want to commend you for focusing on the concept of cooperative networks involving several types of libraries, because it seems to me the arguments for network structures that make it possible for public, academic, school and special libraries to draw on one another's resources are compelling.

As you probably know, there is a great deal of interest nationally in multitype library networks as a more effective approach to sharing resources among libraries. The State of Illinois has probably been at this longer than any other state and has made a major investment of its federal LSCA funds and state aid funds in creating and supporting multitype library systems. At the moment, I'm one of a group of people working under the direction of my colleague from Texas, Dr. Brooke Sheldon, on a project to evaluate what's been accomplished over the last several years in Illinois as a result of the decision to encourage college, school and special libraries to join library systems that were formerly comprised exclusively of public libraries. Because that study is not yet completed, I'm not in a position to share the results with you, but I can tell you that what I've learned so far through my participation in the Illinois study is that it's extremely important to think about evaluation very early in network and system development.

Both I and a number of my colleagues at the University of Pittsburgh have become convinced that the evaluation of network performance is an issue of central importance for library system development. Because evaluation is so important, I'd like to share with you today some of the results of work that's currently being done in addressing that problem.

The importance of evaluation results from the growing importance of networking in relation to basic library operations. In fact, I believe that one could argue quite convincingly that the most significant aspect of library development nationwide over the last 10 to 15 years has been the growth of systems and networks as mechanisms to facilitate the sharing of resources among libraries. The reasons for the rapid growth of library networking can be summarized in just five simple words--economic necessity and technological development. Economic pressures have made it necessary for libraries to find ways to deliver more service to their users at lower cost, and pooling shared resources has come to be seen as more cost-effective than local autonomy and self-sufficiency. At the same time, the development of computers and electronic telecommunications have greatly enhanced the capability of individual libraries to operate effectively in a collective networking mode, even when they are as widely separated geographically as many libraries in North Dakota are.

The consequences of the growth of networking are not just quantitative--it isn't merely that there's more and more network activity going on. The change is qualitative--joining a network tends to change the fundamental character of basic library operations in a couple of important ways. As libraries come to rely more and more on other libraries to supply resources and services, they develop what have been referred to as critical dependencies both on those other libraries and on the network structure that links them to those other libraries. When resource sharing is no longer a supplementary and peripheral aspect of library services--when a library's ability to place a needed item in the hands of a user depends on having effective access to the resources of some other library through the network structure, then it becomes critically important to be able to make a sound, objective evaluation of how well or how poorly the network is performing.

The second reason we're paying more and more attention to evaluating network performance is the growing fiscal significance of networks. As libraries look to networks and systems for more and more service, network operating costs increase and become more visible to member libraries. Everywhere, more and more library dollars--dollars that ten or fifteen years ago would have gone to pay staff salaries or to buy more books for local libraries--are going instead to pay system costs and to support network operations.

Whether they are local dollars paid as system membership fees or federal and state dollars that go directly to systems rather than to individual libraries, the net effect is the same. More and more dollars going to pay network costs means more and more concern for network accountability, a growing insistence that networks and systems justify their costs by demonstrating the tangible value of their services to member libraries.

At the same time, the availability of a much wider range of network technologies, and the rapidly decreasing costs of technology, along with the expansion of the information market place, have widened the range of network membership options available to individual libraries. The question for the individual library is no longer, "Shall we join the network?" but, "Which network(s) shall we join?". I spoke recently to the director of a public library in Ohio that serves a community of under 10,000 people. That library has a total of 14 different networking organizations that it's currently eligible to join. And the ultimate question for the individual library, looking at the costs of network membership, is "Are we getting an optimal return for our dollar investment in network membership?" "Is network membership cost-beneficial for us?"

At the School of Library and Information Science at the University of Pittsburgh, we have several projects under way that we hope will help put librarians in a stronger position to address the question of the cost-benefit of network membership. We're engaged in a long range study of the relative costs of local ownership of books and journals by comparison with the costs of accessing books and journals through network membership. We've completed the first phase of that study, which has enabled us to develop some crude estimates of cost in relation to use in large research collections. Now we're trying to get a fix on the costs of borrowing from other libraries through networking. One objective is to help librarians make better decisions about which titles it is best to buy, and which it is best to borrow.

We're also looking closely at the economics of networking. We're midway through a five-year study supported by the National Science Foundation in which we're trying to create a computerized model--a simulation--of an operating library network. Our objective is to create a network design tool--a device that will enable network planners (like this group) to predict how a proposed network will actually perform as an alternative to simply creating the network and then finding out afterwards how well it's meeting performance expectations.

The key point about evaluating network performance, it seems to me, is to understand that network and system design and network performance evaluation are two aspects of the same issue. That means that when groups like this one come together to plan cooperative programs and to design network structures to implement those programs, it is essential to specify in precise, measurable terms, exactly what level of service you expect from the system, and to understand very clearly the costs of achieving that level of network performance. You need, for example, to be able to say--I want to be able to deliver a photocopy of any periodical article published during the last five years in the United States to a patron within 48 hours at a transaction cost of not more than $3.00 and at a 95% level of success by the third year of network operation. You may then find that this group of parameters cannot be satisfied with the resources available to you, and that you will have to modify one or more of the performance criteria. You may have to settle for a 60% success rate, or a 72-hour delivery time. But what to my mind is vital is that you set the performance criteria before the system becomes operational, and those criteria become the measures of system performance.

My point is really quite simple--you set the rules before you start the game, not while the game is in progress. You aren't in a good position to evaluate how successfully the network is addressing a given library service problem unless you have first stated the problem in very precise terms. And finally, in planning library systems, you have to take into account the fact that the law of critical mass applies to library networks. That means that a networking organization has to achieve a minimum resource base and a minimum technological capability before it can begin to offer a significant level of service. Failure to recognize this at the outset is one of the most common reasons that networks and systems go out of existence which, in fact, a great many do. In the beginning, the curve of rising network costs is steeper than the curve of improved network services. Individual members become sensitive to the costs, decide unilaterally or collectively that the benefits of membership aren't commensurate with the costs, and withdraw. Withdrawal from network membership is, of course, a singularly dramatic and destructive form of network performance evaluation. To decide that the network has failed to measure up to performance expectations when we have not clearly specified in advance precisely what those expectations are is both tragic and irresponsible.

That is why conferences of this kind are so important. They provide an essential opportunity for you to specify your needs and to try to agree on network goals and network service priorities. That's not always easy to do, but it seems to me you've made enormous progress in that direction at this conference, and I assure you that careful planning and close attention to design will prove to be well worth the effort.

A concluding comment. I sense it's important to many people in this room that something happen as a result of this conference. From what I've heard today, I'm convinced that you are the people who will make something happen in North Dakota library service.

WHCOLIS AD HOC IMPLEMENTATION COMMITTEE
Minneapolis, Minnesota
September 15-17, 1980

The Ad Hoc Committee on implementation of White House Conference resolutions composed of two delegates from each state and territory convened in Minneapolis, Minnesota, September 15-17, 1980. All states were represented with the exception of Washington, D.C., Oregon, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming and American Samoa, 91 of a possible 114 delegates present.

The 114 delegate committee was given responsibility for three main tasks:

1. Define implementation steps and strategies of WHCOLIS resolutions at all levels appropriate.
2. Identify agencies responsible for implementation of specific resolutions. (Enlist people for help)
3. Establish an organizational structure for the 114 delegate committee.

Adoption of the rules and agenda for the forthcoming meeting occurred without a great deal of discussion, with the exception of Part V which dealt with an election of officers. This portion of the rules was tabled until our small groups had an opportunity to meet and discuss the structure of the committee. It was later voted upon and approved to form a steering committee of four officers chosen at large and five board members, elected on a regional basis. The most debate of the meeting centered on the lay/professional distribution and how to represent the Island communities, the Indians and Federal libraries. Our region will be represented by a lay delegate from Colorado and an alternate professional delegate from Missouri. The steering committee has four functions:

1. Spearhead a national lobbying effort.
2. Identify sources and obtain funding.
3. Plan the next meeting.
4. Other functions as necessary.

The greatest amount of time in the two days was spent in small work group sessions. The group I participated in was Technical Assistance for Library and Information Services. This dealt with resolutions on tax incentives for author donations to libraries, creation of library standards for paper, climate control and preservation of materials, a nation-wide networking system and the National Library and Information Services Act.

Out of a group of sixteen people, seven were librarians, four academic and three public librarians. Whether or not to continue the 114 delegate committee was not discussed. Conversely, how to keep the group informed and in touch with one another was the issue. As I mentioned before, we were to devise implementation steps and procedures and who should activate them. Since nearly all the resolutions call for federal and/or state legislation, it was stated again and again, that in order to pass legislation, citizen participation would be essential. The idea of keeping alive the nationwide network of citizen participants from the WHCOLIS through the two delegates from each state and each state library agency was a recurrent theme. It was felt since contact people had already been established, that this network should be maintained, and a library advocacy network formed with these people. This group would work in conjunction with and in addition to existing library groups such as A.L.A., NCLIS and COSLA.

The recommendations of my committee concerning the National Library and Information Services Act were to hold six regional hearings to discuss the act and its implications and have the steering committee write to Senators Pell, Kennedy and Ford with this recommendation. They should also write to NCLIS, ALA and all national and state library organizations urging them to also write to the Senators and request an opportunity to testify. The advocacy group should publicize the hearings and the legislation after the hearings are over.

Dick Hays stated in his address to the committee that there had been three direct results of the WHCOLIS felt so far:

1. Full federal funding at requested levels for fiscal year 1981.
2. Creation of an Office of Libraries and Learning Technologies within the Department of Education.
3. A greater amount of awareness about libraries in Washington, D.C. as never felt before.

He also discussed some of the things it is expected that the President will address from the WHC resolutions. (The recommendations of the Eisenstadt committee have recently been forwarded to him). What the 114 delegate committee expects Carter to give priority to would be:

1. A National information policy--networking.
2. Free, equal and open access for all people including sparsely populated and geographically separated, as well as handicapped people.
3. Illiteracy.

A real effort was made at this meeting to find viable solutions in implementing WHCOLIS resolutions. Existing library groups including their lobbying groups, such as ALA and NCLIS, as well as the national library advocacy group were often named as implementation agents in those resolutions requiring legislation. The state library agencies were also named as implementation agents, particularly in resolutions dealing with networking, access, continuing education for librarians, training for trustees, cooperation among libraries, public awareness programs and as a liaison and participant in keeping citizen and library groups informed of the progress in library legislation and implementation procedures.

It is anticipated that the committee will meet again in approximately one year from now; in the interim it is the responsibility of the steering committee to keep us informed on what is happening.

WHCOLIS AD HOC IMPLEMENTATION COMMITTEE
Minneapolis, Minnesota
September 15-17, 1980

Thank you for an opportunity to give you a presentation on WHCOLIS 1979-1980.

As many of you know, I was a White House delegate last November. At this time we were in Washington, D.C. at a meeting where a set of resolutions were derived. As a result of one of the resolutions, the Ad Hoc Committee meeting was called for as follow-up activity. This Ad Hoc meeting was held in Minneapolis on September 15, 16 and 17, starting the 15th at 7 p.m. Here is our statement of purpose:

As an independent body established by resolutions passed by the delegates to the White House Conference on Library Information Services, this Committee has as its function the planning and follow-up of implementation of the WHCOLIS resolutions. The method for doing so includes, but is not necessarily limited to:

- defining implementation steps and strategies at the local, state and national levels;
- identifying agencies and organizations at each of the above levels responsible for implementation of specific resolutions;
- establishing its own priorities for implementation and developing plans for doing so;
- monitoring over-all implementation progress.

In the defining and implementation step, we were broken into smaller groups of 20 members. My interest lies in networking. Members chose a workshop they wanted to attend. We met at two sessions.

The structure of this Ad Hoc Committee was comprised of one lay and one professional delegate from each state. I felt that it gave all of us equal ground in that it was not based on population. This committee was named the 114 committee. Although there were only 91 members, I believe those states that were not represented missed an opportunity to have input. As I see it, this committee could have some far reaching effects on the library community if the implementation of some of these resolutions becomes a reality, which I see happening. Out of this 114 committee came a steering committee comprised of 9 people: a chairman, who is a lay person; a vice-chairman, who is a professional; and a secretary and treasurer. You may be interested in knowing that the Western caucus was very helpful at this time. The president is from Nevada; the vice-president Minnesota; the secretary, Idaho; and the treasurer, Michigan.

Another interesting thing to me was that this whole process started out involving 100,000 people. It is now down to a steering committee of nine people. Of these many delegates who were lay persons, many have become professionals. What a way to get a library community support group put together.

The way these 9 members for the steering committee were elected was: one delegate and one alternate from each of the five regions; four were elected by the whole body and five were elected by the caucus. Our delegate is from Colorado. This person is our contact person. I see this committee as a fund finding committee and also a very strong lobby group. In reading some of the implementation, this committee could really do constructive work. There were a few things not really discussed like funding for this committee. I see some of it coming from NCLIS. I don't know if our regional delegates will be coming to each of the states for support or not. The staff support is coming from NCLIS at this time per resolution. After the steering committee has met, we as an Ad Hoc Committee will meet again.

In talking with Ruth Mahan the other day, she made mention that President Carter cut everything except libraries so maybe the White House Conference did have a purpose.

I would just like to share one thought I had while sitting in Tuesday's general session: funding seems to be the main concern and lobby is the game. National Library Act is the word of the day. I felt Legislative Bill 2859 was the purpose of this meeting.

In closing I would like to thank you for this opportunity and if any one has any questions, I will be happy to discuss them with you.

New Mayville State College librarian Richard Van Wye wants to make library a place where people want to go

by Steve Olson

Richard Van Wye would dispute the idea of a library as a large mysterious building with ancient tomes lining the shelves where quiet is God. "A mausoleum," he said in his own words.

Van Wye is Mayville State College's new librarian, replacing Clenora Quanbeck, who retired this year. Van Wye believes a library is a business along with being a public service institution. Part of that attitude requires that a library have good public relations.

"We are trying to sell and merchandise our services to the public," said Van Wye. "We are trying to make information palatable and exciting. In order to do that, you have to make a library a place where you want to come."

Personnel, the budget and public relations are three things Van Wye says are three common factors that a librarian has to handle no matter where he ends up. When he says these things, he looks more like a businessman instead of the stereotyped image of the librarian; the old lady with the hair pulled back into a severe gray bun, wearing glasses and displaying a perpetual frown or a swift index finger always ready to indicate the "QUIET" sign. When this is pointed out to him, Van Wye smiles and says mildly, "You forgot the tennis shoes. She always has tennis shoes on, no matter what she's wearing."

Van Wye's attitude toward the library as a business was probably born out of the business training he received when he was a Student Library Assistant at Adams State College in his home town of Alamosa, Colorado. He worked under a librarian named Nell Rogers for two years. A librarian who was a businesswoman.

"She taught me the business end of it," said Van Wye about the library work there. "The library's thrust was toward public service. I think that's where a lot of my attitude comes from."

Van Wye has plans for the MSC library to try and tilt it more towards his ideal as a place where people will want to go. Mostly, they are still just ideas in his head or small changes. For example, Van Wye is putting cloth labels on the spines of the books instead of the old hand-lettering, making it easier for the people scanning the shelves to locate the book without trying to puzzle out all the numbers and letters in a hand that might be shaky when they were applied.

Another change is an extension of the circulation period from two weeks to three. Van Wye doesn't believe that two weeks is enough time for someone to really get through a book. He is also looking at coming up with new display shelving in the periodical room. Van Wye said he would like to counter the idea of the library as simply a place for intense study. "I'd like to make the periodical area look like a living room," said Van Wye. "And put some really comfortable chairs in there."

But a big change in the library this year won't be one of Van Wye's ideas. This year the MSC library will adopt the Library of Congress classification scheme, replacing the old Dewey Decimal system. MSC was the last institution of its kind in North Dakota that still used the Dewey Decimal system until this year. The shift is by order of the state.

Van Wye says he is comfortable with the system, says it is easier than Dewey Decimal once it is learned. He is worried, however, that the new system will scare people away from the library.

"People will probably be thinking, 'Oh God, now I can't use the library any more,'" said Van Wye. "That's not true. The Library of Congress scheme is easier. The numbers are shorter and the letters are easier to work with. For example, 'T' is technology."

Richard Van Wye, Mayville State College's new librarian will be replacing Clenora Quanbeck in the position. Van Wye will be presiding over the conversion of the library's classification system from the Dewey Decimal to the Library of Congress scheme.

Van Wye came to MSC from America West, which is a private foundation based in Midland, Texas. Van Wye was an executive vice president there. He created a prospectus for the foundation, pinning them down to where they were going and then working out the details. Van Wye even handled 'little' things, like stationery for the organization. Another part of Van Wye's job concerned grants and their acquisition, which was the reason he left.

"Due to Carter's economic policies, grants and endowments have been curtailed because he says it's inflationary, which may be true," said Van Wye. "It was getting too difficult to try and obtain a grant, you had to have an extremely well-defined project. It was much easier in the Johnson Administration."

Work with the Texas foundation was just one of Van Wye's jobs, there are quite a few others, ranging from his days as a student teacher at Los Alamos High School in Los Alamos New Mexico, to director of learning resources and head librarian at the College of the Southwest in Hobbs, New Mexico. At that institution, Van Wye demonstrated his ability as a fundraiser, increasing contributions to the library tenfold. He also tripled the size of the library collection, the curriculum collection the staff and the library budget.

"Fundraising is a matter of tracking sources down and having the persistence to pursue them," said Van Wye. "At the College of the Southwest, I would bring in contributions by working with the Kiwanis, the Rotarians, etcetera. We had memorial funds set up for the library too. People could dedicate a book in memorial of someone. With a shelf life of five to ten years, the book was much better and more lasting than flowers."

Some librarians can tell people about a particular novel on the best seller lists and describe it and its strong, attractive points with the familiarity of being within the pages. Van Wye does not count himself among that crowd.

"I can give you an idea of what a particular book is like from the reviews that I may have read on a particular book," said Van Wye. "But that's all."

Van Wye says the reason for that is that librarians, especially ones like himself don't spend all their time reading for pleasure. When Van Wye reads, it is to flip through the many journals and trade publications that come across his desk. "This is what I usually read," said Van Wye, holding up a copy of Library Journal. "I do it because I want to stay abreast of everything; of new cataloging systems."

Van Wye says his specialty is reference questions. The library he worked in and the college courses he later took emphasized reference work. "I can usually answer a question or have something in your hand by three minutes," said Van Wye. "If you can't do that you're not doing you're job."

Van Wye is also something of a fighter. In New Mexico, he was offered a seat on the Legislative and Intellectual Freedom Committee. On the committee for four years, one as it's chairman, Van Wye and his colleagues helped to defeat several censorship bills and had a hand in getting the Document Depository Act passed in the state. The act required that 12 copies of every state document published by the legislature be filed with state libraries.

One thing Van Wye was disturbed about in this state was something he said he ran into while in New Mexico. Pulling out a copy of the Flickertale Newsletter, dated July 28, 1980, Van Wye read of an instance where the North Dakota Academic Long Range Planning Committee was told by a representative of the State Central Personnel Division that a Master of Library Science degree or any masters degree was not permitted to be used as a qualifying factor for application for employment in North Dakota State Library agencies. The representative remarked that the "burden of proof is on the library community to show why an American Library Association accredited degree or any masters degree would make any given individual superior to another who does not have an accredited MLS, but may have excellent experience and other education."

"I came unhinged when I saw that," said Van Wye. "I'm concerned that there was no defense made to that gentleman. No questions asked. I probably would've asked him where he got his data." Van Wye indicated a blue sheet of paper that was an announcement for an assistant librarian. "This says, under qualifications: 'ALA accredited Masters Degree and three years experience, preferably with OCLC experience.' We'd prefer that part of it. Now the word goes out from SPO that you can have a degree and/or experience and it doesn't have to be in library science...They tried to put something like this through in New Mexico and the academic and state libraries got together and defeated it."

Van Wye's long list of experience (student teacher, media specialist, workshop director, project director, head librarian) and his diversified range of interests, (music, swimming, bowling, skiing, marksmanship, traveling, skating and writing) seem to fit in with his belief that a professional has to keep moving. Though he does not plan to leave Mayville State for a time, Van Wye says he doesn't visualize staying here "an eternity" either.

"You've got to keep moving keep growing. In small institutions you have the advantage of ease of access. In large institutions, you have the opportunity of exchanging opinions with leading scholars...you've got to be aware of what's happening."

 MINUTES ***

GOVERNOR'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES

Holiday Inn
Moorhead, Minnesota
May 28 - 29, 1980

Wednesday, May 28, 1980

*1 Members Present: George Saiki, Doris Greenleaf, Ruth McMartin, Peg Ahlness, Dina Butcher, Jeanette Holm, Bernmett Reinke, Nelle Wang, Coral Gayton.

Others Present: Richard Wolfert, Jeff Fox, Pamela Mardian

At 1:00 PM Jeanette Holm called the meeting to order. The minutes were read and Doris Greenleaf made the motion to approve them as written. Ruth McMartin seconded the motion and the vote was unanimous.

Mr. Wolfert announced Dave Clark's departure from the State Library and the new employment of Ms. Cindy Larson. He introduced Mary Ryan, a new staff member of the State Library service staff and noted that Miss Mary Braaten had been offered the position of Field Librarian, replacing Ruth Mahan who was now the new government documents librarian at the State Library. Although Mary Braaten was not present at the meeting, she was expected to start employment on July 1, 1980 in the Planning and Development Office.

Mr. Wolfert also announced the addition of the Lockheed Dialog Computer Information System to be used at the State Library to assist in statewide reference and bibliographic support. The national legislation for public libraries was also discussed and it was hoped that a speaker could be secured for the next regularly scheduled ACOL meeting.

Mr. Wolfert then outlined the State Library program budget to date. Programs asked for under this biennium would be:

1. Further development of a Statewide Library Information Service centered at the State Library.
2. A service to State Government program to include a librarian and a library associate.
3. The addition of a children's librarian consultant and a support staff for the planning and development with the addition of a full time secretary.
4. Expansion of Handicapped program with review of the talking book program and revised system of service, possible altering service from South Dakota.

GOVERNOR'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES

May 28 - 29, 1980

5. Seeking State support for the EIC program.

It may be possible to get a computer terminal by 1982 to replace the current hard copy card catalog. This may make it possible to put several or many of our libraries on line and maintain a current, comprehensive holdings catalog accessible from many libraries.

Dina Butcher, as a national member of the ALA Legislative Committee, requested assistance to attend the ALA Annual Conference in New York City in late June. Ruth McMartin made the motion to "recommend that the State Library fund Dina Butcher up to $1,000 for attending the ALA Convention." Betty Kummer seconded the motion and the vote was unanimous. Dina will present a report to the Council on her work and attendance at the Convention at the next regularly scheduled ACOL meeting.

Ruth McMartin and Jeff Fox discussed the Councils involvement with the Interlibrary Cooperation Conference to be held on May 29-30. Council members were to act as facilitators at the conference and assist in the general flow of various required activities such as group sessions, speakers, minutes and group summary reports.

Jeanette Holm reported on the Institutional Committees work in offering recommendations to the State Library for 1980 LSCA Grants to State Institutions. Grants totaled $23,091 and George Saiki made the *2 motion that the "residue of grant application funds be given to the Grafton State School to be spent within federal guidelines (approximately $2,000)." Doris Greenleaf seconded the motion and the vote was unanimous. Ruth McMartin made the motion for "State Library grant funds to be allocated for a statewide conference for institutional libraries to be held in Bismarck." George Saiki seconded the motion and the vote was unanimous. Funding for this program would come out of the overall grant funds designated for next year. The motion to accept ACOL Institutional Committee recommendations for funding institutional grants was made by George Saiki. Peg Ahlness seconded the motion and the vote was unanimous. The Institutional Committee recommendations will be forwarded to Mr. Wolfert as an advisement of the Council.

At 5:30 PM the Council consented to have recess until 8:30, May 29, 1980. There was no evening session.

GOVERNOR'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES

May 28 - 29, 1980

Thursday, May 29, 1980

*3 Members Present: George Saiki, Doris Greenleaf, Ruth McMartin, Peg Ahlness, Dina Butcher, Jeanette Holm, Bernnett Reinke, Nelle Wang, Coral Gayton.

Others Present: Richard Wolfert, Jeff Fox, Pamela Mardian

The Council reconvened at 9:00 on Thursday morning and Ruth McMartin gave a further briefing on the upcoming Interlibrary Cooperation Conference. She discussed recording for the groups and handling registration and group selection and division. Special briefing material prepared by Pat Herbel (Department of Public Instruction) was distributed to Council members to assist them in discussing school/public library relationships. The material included a special article from Missouri on networking school/public libraries. In conclusion, Ruth McMartin read her introductory speech and asked for comments and additions. At this point specific groups were assigned and recorders were assigned for the Interlibrary Cooperation Conference. A post-first day discussion would be held at 4:30 on May 29th (today) to review the days events and prepare for tomorrow.

Jeff Fox outlined the NDLA Planning Committees meeting in New Town that was held on April. The subcommittee for continuing education is going to be working on a project for programs to reach all segments of North Dakota public libraries.

Jeff also reviewed the content of Section 8 of the North Dakota State Plan for Library Development. This section contains three specific areas of subject: education for public librarians, planning as a function and research. He suggested that this chapter be consolidated into Chapter 7 (Public Library Development) and that planning and research paragraphs could be added to each chapter as appropriate. After brief discussion, Doris Greenleaf made the motion recommending that Chapter 8 of the North Dakota State Plan be integrated into Chapter 7 (for education of public librarians) and that planning and research be incorporated into other chapters as necessary. Dina Butcher seconded the motion. The vote had one opposing member.

A complete schedule for the upcoming Interlibrary Cooperation Conference was presented by Ruth McMartin. Questions were answered and the schedule was to be considered firm.

Jeanette Holm then asked for motions from the council that came from any of the various committees. The Grants-In-Aid Committee offered that the evaluation of House Bill 1588 be carried on by this committee by recommending NDLA and the State Library to produce copies of the current questionnaires, so that the council committee could study them. Doris Greenleaf made the motion. Ruth McMartin seconded the motion and the Council vote was unanimous.

GOVERNOR'S ADVISORY COUNCIL ON LIBRARIES

May 28 - 29, 1980

Jeanette Holm directed Jeff Fox to write to Mr. Dokken of Minot to invite him to attend our next regularly scheduled ACOL meeting (probably to be held in conjunction with the NDLA Convention in Minot). Due to Mr. Dokkens previous interest in attending the ACOL sessions, she felt that a special invitation was not out of order.

Mr. Wolfert offered the Advisory Council special compliments on their accomplishments and their growing reputation.

The Council determined to hold their next ACOL meeting in connection with NDLA in Minot on October 1 and 2. The ACOL meeting should begin the day before the NDLA meetings.

Ruth McMartin moved for adjournment of the meeting and Doris Greenleaf seconded.
